Military Chiefs Detail Buildup for Viet Nam

President's Program Is Implemented

By JAMES C. LAGIER
HONOLULU, Hawaii (AP) — Top U.S. military officials decided at a secret eight-hour strategy meeting here how they will carry out President Johnson's order to increase substantially America's commitment in the South Viet Nam war.

Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and U.S. military commanders in the Pacific worked out the details Monday on the 50,000-man buildup announced last Wednesday by the President.

Attending the session with Wheeler were Gen. William C. Westmoreland, head of the U.S. forces in South Viet Nam; Adm. U.S. Grant Sharp, Pacific military commander in chief, and a score of military experts from Washington, Pearl Harbor and Saigon.

Closed Door Session
It was a closed-door meeting devoted to figuring out a timetable for the increase in American troops, as well as the problems of transportation, supplies and placement.

No statement was issued at the conclusion of the meeting, and the principals talked only in generalities about their decisions.

"Obviously, I can't tell you the details of what we talked about," Wheeler said as he walked out of Pacific Military Headquarters at Camp H. M. Smith overlooking Pearl Harbor.

"However, I can say we accomplished what I came here for."

Then the nation's top military officials spelled out the goal of the sessions:

"I came out to talk to Admiral Sharp on how we can implement the President's program."

Johnson announced a planned increase in U.S. personnel in Viet Nam from 75,000 to 125,000.

Wheeler declined to speculate on any future manpower increase.

Maxwell D. Taylor, retiring as U.S. ambassador to South Viet Nam, dropped in on the talks for an hour.

He was in Honolulu over the weekend en route to Washington to report to President Johnson before turning the ambassadorship over to Henry Cabot Lodge.

Taylor did not take a formal part in the talks but said, "I'm just stopping off to see my good friends, General Westmoreland and Admiral Sharp."

He was asked about a report

Pre-Dawn Raids Net 10 Suspects Of World Crime

PALERMO, Sicily (AP) — International police were asked today to help track down four suspected members of a super-gang linking the Sicilian Mafia with the American Cosa Nostra.

Police moved against the international mob Monday, rounding up 10 suspects in a series of

Genco Russo

predawn raids from Bologna in northern Italy to Taormina in eastern Sicily.

Two of those still at large were believed living in New York City and a third somewhere in California.

Italian authorities said they were Joseph Cerrito, 54, a U.S. citizen residing in California and a friend of the late Charles (Lucky) Luciano; Santo Sorge, 57, a U.S. citizen living in New York, accused in the past of fraud and espionage; and Gennaro Russo, 73, U.S. citizen of New York, also described as a friend of Luciano.

Monday Raids
In Monday's raids police teams picked up Giuseppe (Genco) Russo, 72, reputed head of the Mafia, and Frank (Three Fingers) Coppola, 75, a Sicilian once said to be Luciano's heir.

Coppola was deported from the United States in 1948.

The 14 men were charged with associating to commit crime and a variety of individual allegations including drug smuggling and bombings.

American and European police had long suspected a link between the ancient Mafia and the Cosa Nostra, but it was the first time authorities claimed enough evidence to obtain arrest warrants.

Appalachian Meeting
Palermo Police Chief Francesco Intorissi said some of the 14 played a role in the 1957 underworld convention at Appalachin, N.Y., although none of their names had appeared on New York state police lists of those attending the convention.

Intorissi said several "preconventions" were held in Palermo before the Appalachin gathering.

Police said their investigation showed the Mafia and Cosa Nostra exchanged plans, men and equipment with the Mafia adopting some of the modern American rackets.

Authorities said the super-

$25 Million Prize at Stake

3 Men to Scrape Bottom of Delaware Bay For Legendary Spanish Treasure Galleon

LEWES, Del. (AP) — Three men are preparing to probe the murky depths of Delaware Bay for Spanish gold and silver.

They hope to find captured booty valued at more than $8 million that was aboard the British sloop of war De Braak when it sank in a gale off Lewes in May 1798.

The searchers, Louis De Cerchio, Marios S. Busa, and Dr. William T. De Feo, a dentist, all of Philadelphia, estimate they have spent $80,000 locating the sunken ship and preparing for the recovery operation.

The State of Delaware granted their company a three-year exclusive salvage permit and Monday the U.S. Navy also approved the operation.

According to records, the De Braak was carrying 800 pounds of gold, silver valued at $25 million and 70 tons of copper seized from two Spanish galleons. When she sank, legend says, 34 crewmen and more than 100 Spanish prisoners drowned.

Through the years numerous expeditions to recover the treasure have failed.

But, De Cerchio said: "This is no search for sunken treasure. We have had men on the De Braak six times where portions of her are not buried in the silt. We know where she lies, we don't have to hunt for her."

"When William Smith of Philadelphia, our head diver, goes down, he knows exactly where to look. And so do the other two divers."

He added that "all things being equal we hope to bring up the De Braak by the middle of October."

There's still one bit of mystery about the sunken vessel. According to legend and some records, the ship's skipper, Capt. James Drew, was headed for shore in a boat when the gale struck.

He supposedly turned back and was aboard the ship when it capsized.

Suspects White House Leak

Ford Rebuffs Johnson On 'Broken Confidence'

WASHINGTON (A) — Rep. Gerald R. Ford of Michigan said today he has a suspicion that information on a Viet Nam conference between President Johnson and congressional leaders last week "was leaked from the White House."

The House Republican leader, regarded as the apparent target of Johnson's blast at "a prominent member of another party" over the reports, did not elaborate.

But in a television interview on "Today" he did deny anew that he was the source of the controversial accounts.

At issue, in particular, was a published report that a memorandum read at the White House session by Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana influenced Johnson's choice not to call up National Guard and Reserve units.

Johnson said that was untrue, and took the view that the leak was in "perhaps malicious" form.

Ford said most of the significant information on the meeting had leaked out from other sources by the next morning and much of it was given at a Pentagon press briefing the following day.

Johnson Sensitive
"I broke no confidence," Ford asserted.

He added that he has a suspicion that Johnson "is very sensitive" because some prominent Senate Democrats have been critical of his policies in Viet Nam.

The House GOP chief said he did not refer to the Mansfield statement or Reserve plans in an informal background briefing with newsmen after the White House meeting.

He said he thought it would be best to drop the whole thing.

That part of his comment today was about the same thing he had said Monday.

Federal Bonds Are Posted for Demonstrators

ALLENTOWN, S.C. (AP) — A federal government representative posted bond today for 37 civil rights demonstrators who were arrested in the Allentown County Courthouse while protesting voter registration practices.

The Rev. C. A. Webster Jr., a Baptist minister who works with the federal community relations program, initiated blanket bonds of $200 each for 36 demonstrators and bonds totaling $700 for one white youth arrested Monday after a scuffle with state troopers.

Webster told newsmen this was a relatively new procedure for the federal government.

Nineteen of the white and Negro demonstrators took advantage of the bond and left jail early this morning. Four negro girls under 17 had been released earlier to their parents. Fourteen demonstrators declined to take advantage of the bond offer and remained in jail.

State Minuteman Activities Being Studied by FBI

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. John A. Race, D-Wis., said Monday the FBI was probing Minuteman activities in Wisconsin and called for consideration of a federal law banning organization of private armies.

In Milwaukee, an FBI official declined comment. Race said he had "documented proof" of Minuteman activity in Wisconsin, but withheld details because he didn't wish to hamper an investigation.

The Fond du Lac congressman charged Minuteman tactics up anti-United Nations posters in Sheboygan in 1963 and that automatic weapons were believed being stockpiled in the Elm Grove-Brookfield area.

Brush Fires Flare Anew on Riviera

LAVANDOU, France (AP) — The smoldering fringes of several Riviera brush fire zones flared up before driving winds today and burned two fire engines. Two firemen were reported missing.

Two persons already had been killed and thousands of tourists routed in several days of fires that have raged over about 25,000 acres of parched brush and low pine forests in the French vacationland. Twelve persons were reported injured.

One new fire broke out near the village of La Cote. Officials said sparks were blown from the city dump into a thicket of dry scrub pines.

Boy's Story of Woman's Death Is Substantiated

FOND DU LAC (AP) — A 14-year old boy's story of a young mother's fatal plunge from a park observation tower was substantiated in a lie detector test, Sheriff Ray Howard said today.

Mrs. Suzanne Velasco, 20, was found dead Sunday at the base of an 87-foot high tower in Columbia Park. The boy told police he and Mrs. Velasco had climbed the tower while attending a picnic and that she suddenly climbed over the railing and either jumped or fell to her death.

The boy said he went to the body and tried to pull Mrs. Velasco to a car but abandoned the effort after dragging her 16 feet.

Howard took the boy to Madison for the lie test Monday.

Marines Burn 100 Homes Near Airbase

DA NANG, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. Marines burned out about 100 Vietnamese homes today after they received intense sniper fire from a village area three miles south of Da Nang.

Marines told a newsmen they were ordered to set fire to homes in the area if they got so much as one round of sniper fire. The area has been a menace to the Marines since they came to Da Nang.

Will Not Sign Treaty

Russians Balk at Idea Of NATO Nuclear Arm

GENEVA (AP) — The Soviet Union said today it will never sign a treaty to halt the spread of nuclear weapons so long as the West continues to bow to what it called "West German blackmail" and goes ahead with the proposed multinational nuclear force.

Chief Soviet delegate Semyon K. Tsarapkin told the 17-nation disarmament conference that the nuclear force proposed for the North Atlantic Treaty Organization is "absolutely unacceptable" to the Soviet Union.

Strong Attack
In a strong attack on the United States, he said American "imperialism and aggression" in Viet Nam is a major obstacle to further disarmament agreements.

Tsarapkin's attack caused no surprise although one Western delegate said it was "rather tougher than we expected."

The Soviet delegate had repeatedly told newsmen during the past week that the Russians would not sign any nonproliferation treaty so long as the West went ahead with its joint-nuclear force.

Disarmament Efforts
Despite the aggressive tone of his speech, Tsarapkin stressed the need to continue efforts to seek agreement on disarmament.

"The Soviet Union will not reduce its efforts in the search for disarmament and the relaxation of international tension," he said.

He repeated the Soviet position that the withdrawal of foreign troops and foreign bases has priority over a treaty to halt the spread of nuclear weapons.

He also stressed that the Soviet Union will not agree to an extension of the Moscow test ban treaty to include underground tests so long as the West demands on-site inspections.

Licenses to Carry Guns Increased

AMERICUS, Ga. (AP) — The first arrests of pickets and a statement that an increasing number of white residents are buying pistol permits heightened racial tensions today.

Negro leaders, ignoring appeals from Gov. Carl E. Sanders for local handling of disputes, said pickets would return to a grocery store where 23 were arrested Monday.

The Sumter County Grand Jury, convened in special session Monday, is considering charges against Eddie Will Lamar and Charles Lee Hopkins, both 21. The two Negroes are charged with slaying Andrew A. Whitley, 21, a white Marine enlistee shot Wednesday night about three blocks from a civil rights demonstration.

A county official, Eugene Horne, announced Monday that white residents were buying permits to carry pistols at a fast clip. A $2 fee is all that is required for the permits — and all sold so far have gone only to whites, Horne said.

"The people here are excited about their own safety. People here are going to defend themselves and their rights," he said.

Horne added that he thought the pistols would only be used defensively and not "without provocation."

Special Session
Police arrested the 23 pickets when grocery store manager Carl Fox said they were parading on a private sidewalk. They were charged with trespassing.

Newsmen saw a white man knock a white demonstrator to the ground and another white man slap a Negro picket. There were no arrests.

Scientists Maintain Link With Mariner 4; Recorder Turned Off

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Scientists have turned off Mariner 4's tape recorder and turned on other scientific and engineering equipment that had been shut down during the spacecraft's rerun of the historic Mars photos.

Spokesmen at Jet Propulsion Laboratory said the playback of 21 pictures was completed shortly before 9 p.m. Monday when Mariner was 150 million miles from earth.

Scientists say they expect to maintain communications with the craft for another six to eight weeks. They say an attempt to regain contact will be made in September 1967 when the craft's orbit around the sun will carry it within 25 million miles of earth.

Cars Collide Headon 2 Die in Crash Near Black Creek

Two double fatalities resulting from accidents in Jefferson and Outagamie County raised the 1965 death toll on Wisconsin highways to 529 today. On this date in 1964 the total was 612.

Marshal F. Zuleger, 30, route 1, Black Creek, and Frank Rudzinski, 72, 325 Ivory St., Seymour, died Monday night as a result of a two-car headon collision on State 47 three miles north of Black Creek. Two others in the crash are seriously injured and are in Appleton Memorial Hospital.

The accident which occurred about 9:30 p.m., was the county's third double highway fatality of the year and brought the year's county death count to 15.

Zuleger, driver of one car heading north of 47 was killed almost instantly at the accident scene on a straight stretch of road.

Rudzinski died about midnight at Appleton Memorial Hospital, two hours after the crash. He was heading south on 47 when the accident occurred.

Hospitalized With Injuries
Rudzinski's wife, about 70, and a son, Frank Jr., 46, are hospitalized with injuries at Memorial Hospital. Mrs. Rudzinski is in critical condition and her son is listed as serious.

County authorities said today they have no information on the cause of the headon collision which occurred as both cars apparently were being driven close to the highway centerline in their own lanes of traffic.

Outagamie County Coroner
Bernard H. Kemps and Sheriff Calvin Spice, both called to investigate the double death, said evidence at the scene was inconclusive and there were no witnesses to the crash.

Have Not Been Questioned
Survivors have not been questioned due to their injuries and it is doubtful that they will be questioned today, Kemps said. He said he planned no inquest.

Kemps said investigation at the scene disclosed that Zuleger, who lived alone, has been under treatment for a heart condition since last year when he suffered a heart seizure. Kemps has ordered an autopsy on Zuleger to determine if the victim had suffered another heart seizure before the accident.

A man and a woman were killed this morning when two cars collided on Interstate 94 near the Dane-Jefferson county line. The dead were James Alsage, 42, a Watertown High School teacher, and a woman riding in the other car. Her identity was not disclosed pending notification of next of kin.

Injured and in critical condition following the mishap which occurred at 6:53 a.m. was Nick Moncel, 19, of route 4, Hayward.

Major Change
Its major change in present policy, however, would be in its abolition of the quota system, devised to mirror the U.S. population makeup in 1920. Under it, Northern and Western European nations get most of the available U.S. entry permits, but use only a fraction of them.

The bill would do away with the quota system on July 1, 1968, and until then the quotas unused by any nation would be pooled to reduce the backlog of applicants from low-quota countries.

Starting July 1, 1968, a ceiling of 170,000 would be placed on immigration from the present quota countries, under which each country would be treated equally. A maximum limit of 20,000 would be placed on admissions from any one nation.

Western Hemisphere nations, which are now allowed unrestricted immigration outside the quota, would not be affected by the proposed new law.

Also outside the ceiling would be the parents, spouses and children of U.S. citizens.

Annual Immigration
The effect of the bill would be to authorize total annual immigration of about 340,000—170,000 under the ceiling, 120,000 from the Western Hemisphere and 50,000 parents, spouses and children.

The only real opposition to the bill as it went through both the judiciary subcommittee and the full committee was to the provision for unrestricted immigration from the Western Hemisphere.

Rep. Clark MacGregor, R-Minn., offered amendments in both groups to bring the hemi-

Make-Up Was the Last touch before curtain time Monday afternoon. By far the most elaborate belonged to the wicked Rumpelstiltskin, played by Greg Grummer. Watching Cindi Hick-inbotham give him the finishing touches are Katie Lundeen and Patrick Long. Below, as the production opened, a group of village youngsters dances in front of The Blue Mill, as the lazy miller, played by Jim Haugner, sleeps in the foreground.

Rumpelstiltskin Struts His Lively Hour

Post-Crescent Women's Editor

They are young—to understate the fact—and what they aggregated in experience is almost non-existent, but the cast of "Once Upon a Time," otherwise known as "Rumpelstiltskin," combines a delight of talent and skill to present to the children of the city almost two hours of songs and dance, drama and color. It's a charming and polished performance.

To deliver plaudits to a cast of 34 in proper amounts is an impossible task. Greg Grummer, as Rumpelstiltskin, is just that. He comes through as the bragging strutting 'know-all' little dwarf who almost wrecks the young Queen Gretchen's life with high credibility. As he began his stint, a three-year-old in the audience sagely asked, "Why does he have such a wicked nose?"

Just A Start

Karen Jepson also brings considerable talent to her role as the miller's daughter turned queen. Her voice is sweet and she should prove an asset to local theater for several years to come.

The three Mancel children,

Singing Pages, provide a make-believe setting through their introductory and opening scene songs and are a joy to watch.

Director Anne Glasner has produced sets of color and simplicity that set the background without being burdensome or distracting. The 50-voice chorus, directed by Miss Kaaren Miles, adds body to the youthful voices singing solo on stage.

Can't Be Still

The audience was a pony-tailed, crew cut, tennis-shoed group that showed cheering appreciation the minute the house lights were lowered. The cast might do well to take into consideration their restlessness and insuppressibility, and talk slower and with more projection.

The entire cast, and all members of the crew, delivered to their whistling audience, a trip to the land of fantasy well worth taking. The journey will be made twice more—at 7:30 p.m. today and at 2 p.m. Wednesday.

Madison Junior High School's auditorium should be filled to capacity both times.

The Line Was Long but determined an hour before curtain time at Madison Junior High School Monday. The full house thoroughly enjoyed the Appleton Recreation Dept. summer theater production, directed by Mrs. Anne Glasner and with the musical direction of Miss Kaaren Miles. Almost 100 children and playground leaders participated in the production. (Post-Crescent Photos)

NAMES AND SIGNATURES

Dear Louise: I remember that a widow is entitled to her husband's name unless she remarries and should sign her name "Josephine Brown" or "Mrs. George Brown" never "Mrs. Josephine Brown," because she is not a divorcee. Some of my widowed friends sign their names such as Mrs. Mary Harris Smith saying that since their husbands are dead they feel silly using their names. Even though I ask my church pastor to leave off the Mrs. when sending mail, he still sends it to Mrs. Josephine Brown. I have been a widow for 12 years and still resent such a name as though I were divorced. Should I sign my letters: Mrs. George Brown?

Louise Davis Answers: No. Your name is Mrs. George Brown. Your signature is Josephine Brown (without the Mrs.) If you keep in mind that a name and a signature are two different things, it will help you in the future. If you wish to identify your correct name when signing a letter correctly as Josephine Brown, you would write underneath in parentheses: Mrs. George. Or it would be equally correct to complete the name: Mrs. George Brown. Then when your letter is being answered, the writer would know how to address the envelope with your correct name. If your pastor continues to address your mail to Mrs. Josephine Brown, the only thing to do is to overlook it. Many people don't understand this rule of names and signatures.

Your Problems

Ann Lets One of the Good Teens Have It Right Between the Eyes

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You say you are a friend of us teenagers but you are really our enemy. You have hurt our image worse than anyone else I can think of.

I have been reading your column for four years and I have never read one letter from a good teen-ager. You only print letters from girls who have to get married, or boys who steal cars and get into trouble with the law. I am a 15-year-old who doesn't know even one person who has done the things you are always talking about in your crummy column.

You owe it to all teen-agers to turn over a new leaf and start to print letters from us good kids. This can be your first. — One of Millions

Dear One: A columnist named Mike Royko who writes for the Chicago Daily News received a letter similar to yours. Here is what Mike said in his reply:

"Dear Good Teen-ager: I am sick of you. You are getting to be a pain in the neck.

"I can't remember the last time a Good Teen-ager came up to me and shook my hand and said, 'Gee, Good Adult, thanks for not being a Bad Adult.'"

"You say nobody understands you and point out how valiantly you have resisted being a robber, a sniffer of glue, a drop-out, and a menace to society. Besides, you don't hit your teacher, and you work after school and are a joy to your parents.

"I do not go around taking pep pills or shooting people either. My reward is that I don't get thrown in jail. That is also your reward. You don't punch your teacher and I don't punch my boss. So you get an education and I get to keep my job. You don't hot rod your car and neither do I. We both may live longer and that is a pretty nice reward, isn't it?"

"You work after school. I work after work. We both get money which is always handy to have around. And don't forget that for many years I have been contributing part of my money to building those schools that you are so generously not dropping out of.

school is an education which will help you hold down a better job, or be a doctor or a lawyer. Education can help you live a fuller life and be a Good Adult. So stop writing and asking for praise for doing what you are supposed to do. That's what you're here for.

Your Truly,

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have a friend who is an absolute genius when it comes to mooching small amounts. Whenever we get on a bus she says, "Put in my fare, Minnie I haven't got change. I'll get it next time."

When we have coffee breaks together she sticks me at least twice a week. Yesterday she asked me to pick up her watch at the jeweler. She suffers from hay fever and was feeling lousy. She didn't mention that I'd have to pay $2.50 to get the watch out. I don't want to be petty, but I can't afford these small nicks. Help! Help! — Minnie The Mooched On

Dear Min: What's the matter? No vocal chords? Skilled moochers must be dealt with in a skilful manner.

Coffee Cake Glaze

You can make up a glaze for a coffee cake by mixing two cups of sifted confectioners sugar with three tablespoons of hot water and a half teaspoon of vanilla.

Don't let her outfumble you. Develop an impediment in your reach. When you have coffee together don't be bashful about saying, "It's your turn. I got it yesterday." When she asks you to pick up items which have been repaired, you should assume they must be bailed out. Tell her, "Sorry, I can't afford it. Things are tough all over."

When necking becomes petting, watch out! To learn how the smart girl keeps both her dignity and her boy friend, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Necking and Petting — And How Far To Go," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope. (Copyright, 1965)

Mrs. Sam Snead at Home

By HARRY COVERT

HOT SPRINGS, Va. (AP)—On Vine Cottage Road in Hot Springs, about a Sam Snead drive from the golf course, there's a pretty white two-story house to which almost anyone in the resort town can direct you.

The lady of the house is Mrs. Audrey Snead. You would know her better as Mrs. Samuel Jackson Snead, wife of the famed golf professional.

"But I prefer Audrey," she said. "I feel that Sam has made his success pretty much on his own and, in a woman's way, I like to keep my own identity."

Stays Home

Mrs. Snead stays on Vine Cottage Road while her husband plays the tournaments and exhibitions which, popular legend says, earn him all the cash he has slashed away in mattresses and buried boxes.

Sam gets home only about six months of each year—and little of that time is spent in Hot Springs. The Sneads winter in Boca Raton, Fla., where Sam is part owner of a golf club. They are building a new home there to be completed next winter.

Golf is a summertime diversion for Mrs. Snead. She plays often at the Homestead's Cascades course here and shoots in the 80s—sometimes in the high 70s. Her best round was a recent 78, seven over par.

But Sam's reputation is so formidable that it carries over even into Mrs. Snead's golf game.

"I usually have to play with men," she said. "Most women don't want to play with Mrs. Sam Snead—they think I'd be too good for them."

"Sam says I could be better and is always fussing with me because I don't practice enough to suit him."

No Lessons

Sam never has given his wife a golf lesson but has helped her correct some flaws in her swing. This has helped make her a big hitter for a woman. She uses men's clubs and has drives of 250 yards.

Dominating the den of the Snead home is a large portrait of Sam, now 53, and two enormous trophies. There are thousands of other medals and trophies that are not displayed. And there are the scrapbooks.

plies of them that Audrey Snead has kept faithfully over the 35-odd years Sam has been one of the world's best known golfers. It doesn't bother Mrs. Snead, as it does so many other people, that Sam never has won the U.S. Open.

"There have been enough others to offset this," she says.

Harder on Wife

Mrs. Snead quite often has watched Sam play in televised tournaments and matches, and she said, "Usually I am very tense. It's actually harder on the wife, you know, because you feel so helpless and so sorry you can't help him when he's having a bad day."

Mrs. Snead said she has been wanting Sam to retire from the golf wars "for a long time—but I don't think he'll ever retire. He loves golf, although he's not too fond of all those tournaments any more."

This month, Sam and Audrey Snead will celebrate their 25th wedding anniversary. But their love affair dates back further than that. They first met in Valley High School here.

"We were so young my father wouldn't let Sam come to our house to take me out," says Mrs. Snead. "When we were in high school, we used to pass notes back and forth and hold hands on the school bus. 'I was 17 before we had a real date.'"

The Sneads have two sons—Jackie, 22, a senior at Miami, Fla., university, and Terry, 13.

Wedding Gift Ideas For the Rich Giver With Taste for Art

If money is no object in your quest for the perfect wedding gift, why not give the bride and groom a painting?

On the theory that hanging something on the wall is as vital to the new bride as having china and silver on the table, a Chicago art gallery has set up a bridal registry for paintings. The gallery offers works dating from the mid-19th Century to the present, at prices from $150 to $375,000. The engaged couple looks over the gallery's selection and registers their preference. All you have to do is present the gallery a big fat check and your gift worries are over.

Especially helpful is the gallery's traditional policy of allowing an exchange after five years. Or, if the marriage is dissolved in that time, the couple may turn in their original choice for two pictures with the same value. Now isn't that thoughtful?

Sunday Dinner in the Park

It was cool almost everywhere in the Fox Cities Sunday. The exception was at Pierce Park, where members of the Kiwanis Club spent the day over hot charcoal applying melted butter and spices to sizzling chicken. The annual Kiwanis chicken barbecue took hundreds of women out of the kitchen. There were 1,856 served at the benefit.

Jack Manwell was chairman of the event. Proceeds are used to carry out the Kiwanis program for children. Among recipients are Morgan and Plamann Schools, the Mental Health Association Day Care Center, and support of a Christmas party and shopping excursion for underprivileged children.

Serving began at 11 a.m. and continued until 6:30 p.m. In addition to chicken, those who went through the line helped themselves to potato chips, rolls, cole slaw, cranberry sauce, pickles, beverage and ice cream.

About 75 Kiwanians and their families were involved in the day's activity.

Ronald Smith, above center, received help from the poultrymen who kept the chicken cold and ready to be cooked during the day. Below, the event was a family affair for the Earl Brinkmans. Their daughters are Sandra, Cindy and Janis. At right, pavilion tables were kept occupied during the day as families attended the barbecue.

There Was Only One Way to eat chicken Sunday and that was with the fingers. The young man unconcerned with utensils and enjoying the Kiwanis event at Pierce Park is Drew Hatteberg. At left, passing down the line and filling their plates, are some of the 1,856 who enjoyed the annual event. (Post-Crescent Photos)

Lutheran Women to Attend Convention

Three Fox Cities women will attend the triennial convention of the National Council of Churches and missionaries of the Lutheran Church Women, scheduled to be held Aug. 16 to 20 in Cleveland, Ohio. They are Mrs. Clarence Van Loo and Mrs. Carl K. Towley, both of St. Timothy's Lutheran Church, Menasha, and Mrs. William Chandler, member of the Trinity Lutheran Church, Appleton.

Mrs. Chandler is a member of the Board of American Missions, the national board of directors after they discuss their staffs of Lutheran Church Women contributions to human relations. Mrs. Van Loo, a delegate and Aug. 18. The following day the president of the Wisconsin-Lutheran Women's conference, Mrs. Van Loo, is a nominee for the board of directors. Also a delegate, Mrs. Towley is the wife of St. Timothy's pastor.

There are 381 delegates scheduled to attend the event, with about 1,000 visitors expected to attend many sessions. Represented will be the United States, Canada, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands.

Speakers at the five-day program will talk on government, human relations, politics, education and religion.

"God Calls us to Practice Love and Justice in Human Relations" is the theme of the convention. The Aug. 16 keynote address will be given by the Rev. Dr. Frederick K. Wentz, professor at the Lutheran Theological Seminary, Gettysburg, Pa. Participating in an Aug. 17 human rights symposium will be Rep. Edith Green, congresswoman from Oregon; Charles P. Taft, aged, prominent churchman, and New York Attorney William S. Ellis. "The Church Woman in the one or two sessions per week. Affairs of Today" will be discussed and a session with the hairbrush by Mrs. Abbie Clement.

Beautiful hair seems to be a prerequisite for little girls who model in high fashion shows. Whether hip length or trimmed at the bottom, their locks always literal-bounce with health and vitality. There really is no reason why every "ordinary" girl (of any age) can't also enhance her appearance with the same shiny-clean, well-brushed look. All it takes is proper sleep and diet, and a session with the hairbrush every single day!

Marriage Promises Exchanged

Miss Carol Ann Radloff became the bride of James R. Penterman at 10 a.m. today at St. Nicholas Catholic Church, Freedom. The Rev. Alfred Hietpas celebrated the nuptial high mass.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Radloff, route 4, Appleton, are parents of the bride. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Penterman, route 3, Kaukauna.

Assisting as matron of honor was Mrs. E. Michael Smith, Sparta, a sister of the bride. Bridesmaids were Miss Carol Penterman and Miss Darlene Schuh.

John W. Penterman, Rochester, Minn., attended his brother as best man. Serving as groomsmen were Richard R. Penterman and E. Michael Smith. Martin Engstrom and Ronald Hermanson shared ushering duties.

A reception was held at Van Abel's Restaurant, Hollandtown. The newlyweds will honeymoon in Canada and Minnesota and will reside at 409 E. 17th St., Kaukauna.

Mrs. Penterman is employed as a secretary to Dr. S. J. Kioehn. Her husband is a machinist with Giddings and Lewis Machine Tool Co., Kaukauna.

Expense of Child-Rearing Jumps With Living Costs

Children in this generation again, this is an approximate breakdown of the statistics:

Type of Expenditure	10-Year Cost
Food	$6,400
Housing	7,475
Clothing	2,725
Transportation	3,350
Medical Care	1,475
Personal Care	810
Recreation	925
Education (not college)	120

Estimates of what a family would have to pay at today's prices to bring up a child from birth to 18 range widely, of course, depending on family income, the number of children, spending habits, unanticipated financial demands and where the family lives. Still, it's possible to get a pretty reliable idea of what Mom and Dad would have to spend in 18 years, before John or Sally go to college.

Figure Jumps
About 20 years ago, Dr. Louis I. Dublin, widely-known authority on man and money, estimated that for a family with an average income of $3,000, it would cost approximately three times that much to raise a youngster from infancy to 18. Today's family, now with average income of about $6,000, may spend about $24,000 to bring up one child, on the basis of consumer expenditures reported by the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

While this amount applies to a family with two children who live in a city or suburb, actual expenditures for any one family can vary in either direction. If a family's income today is well below $6,000 — and this is often the case — their cost of raising a youngster is undoubtedly less than $24,000, perhaps closer to half that amount. However, an 18-year outlay could go as high as $59,000 for a four-member city or suburban family with an annual income of $15,000 or more.

Statistical Breakdown
Getting down to gold tacks, just what are the separate items in this average, $24,000 bill? Using the typical city or suburban family as an illustration

Sheinwold Help Self; Soothe Partner

After you have finished playing a hand there is sometimes an awkward little silence. This is when you must jump in with words of high praise for your partner's bidding. With luck, one sliver of soft soap will ease you through an entire session of bridge.

South played a low spade from dummy at the first trick, a regrettable play. East won with the king of spades and shifted to the queen of clubs.

Just a few seconds later, as the opponents settled back with three clubs and one spade, South assured North that his response of one notrump was among the most brilliant bids of the century.

The speech was just in time. North had been struggling for words to describe the play of the hand, and "brilliant" had not been one of the words.

Unnecessary Loss
It was foolish and unnecessary to let East win a trick. South could develop his tenth trick without taking this risk. South should take the first trick with the ace of spades, cash the top diamonds and lead a trump to dummy's eight to return the jack of diamonds.

As the cards lie, East plays low, and South discards the queen of spades. West takes the queen of diamonds and returns a diamond to prevent a later discard on the ten of diamonds. East ruffs the ten of diamonds, and South over-ruffs with a high trump. Declarer leads a trump to the nine and returns the ten of spades from dummy. East puts up the king (otherwise South would discard) and South ruffs high.

Now South leads a trump to dummy's jack and cashes the nine of spades as his tenth trick. East never had a chance to gain the lead, so South was never in danger of losing three club tricks.

Daily Question
Partner opens with one spade, and the next player passes. You hold: S-K 5 4 2; H-6 5 2; D-9 4 3; C-Q J 10. What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two spades. This is a terrible hand, but at least you do have good trump support for your partner. The response of two spades will make it very difficult for the opponents to get into the auction even if the hand "belongs" to them.

Mathematical Approach
By the same token, the estimated 18-year outlay for transportation may be reducible, if only because of the simply mathematical approach of dividing a total by the number of persons in the family. The same thing applies to expenditures for housing.

On the other hand, the cost of feeding a youngster for 18 years could run as high as $10,000, according to some authorities. Medical expenses, too, may outstrip current estimates, especially if a youngster suffers more than the usual share of sniffles, childhood ailments and minor tooth decay.

Private Habits
At any rate, the statistical estimates are arithmetical averages that probably won't account for the highs and lows of private habit. Furthermore, they are somewhat incomplete, as far as a total budget is concerned. The cost of being born, for example, is not included, and this expense today could commonly mean a $600 or $700 bill.

There undoubtedly are many ways a family can cut costs over the years and reduce their total outlay for each child. Nevertheless, when Mom and Dad buy a home to provide more living space and comfort for themselves and the children, when they buy a larger automobile, more appliances, food, clothing and even toys, for that matter, their expenses are bound to increase dramatically in the child-rearing years. Keep in mind, too, that costs are likely to increase from year to year.

Even though the reported averages may not apply to your particular circumstances, they may at least provide a good idea of where the trends are leading.

Ailing House Use Enamel In Painting Plaster

BY ROGER C. WHITMAN
Q: What is the best way to paint small plaster figures of animals?
A: Wipe off any dust; be sure there's no grease. Then a slightly thinned coat of enamel undercoat, thinned 1/4 with linseed oil. Finish coat can be any top quality enamel, brushed or sprayed.
Q: How can I remove tea spots from wallpaper?
A: An excellent home method is to apply glycerin, which dissolves the pigment causing the stain. Then blot up the glycerin, with a poultice made of powdered whiting and liquid spot remover fluid. When the poultice dries, brush off. Repeat if necessary.
Q: Is there any home method for repairing a damaged mirror backing? The silvering has been scraped off in several small areas, spoiling the appearance of the mirror.
A: Renewing the silvering is not a home job, sorry to say. It requires considerable equipment only found in professional glass establishments. The only "first aid" is to tape pieces of aluminum foil over the bare spots. It will still look patchy, but you may consider the results a slight improvement.

A Lovelier You By Mary Sue Miller

Health Foods
A lovely writes: The reducers, diet enjoyed by peoples in my circle are on a health-food kick. It's yogurt for breakfast, a bunch of watercress at lunch, and pumpkin seeds to snack on. Does that kind of thing have merit, or is it another reducing fad?
The Answer: For centuries the so-called health foods have been a staple part of the normal beyond a certain point, there's a squeak in my rocking chair. The rungs seem to fit tightly. What can I do about this?
A: You can get what is termed "dry lubricant" at any hardware store. Squirt this into the rung joints, especially where the rockers are fastened. Also available in spray form.

Other Foods
The same is true of other health foods from watercress through various seeds to vegetable oils, herbs, honey, yeast, whole grains, sun-dried fruits, brown rice and brown sugar. All are known to supply concentrated amounts of vital nutritional elements.
And they perform at a relatively low cost in calories in comparison with many of the more familiar foods. Thus their use to reducers is obvious. To everyone!
But to make a fetish of health foods to the extent that all others are excluded is ridiculous. Birds love seed but they also eat the fruit!
No food is a fad, unless you make it so. Please don't!

Clintonville Youth Admits Armed Robbery

Being Held With Two Companions for Shoplifting Spree

A 19-year-old youth being held in connection with a four-county shoplifting operation, today confessed to the armed robbery of a Shawano County night club last Jan. 20.

Nicholas Flink, 19, Clintonville, told Clintonville police and Outagamie County authorities he and two juvenile companions held the patrons in Club 22 at gunpoint, bound them with tape borrowed from a high school basketball manager and robbed the night club of $45.

In a statement obtained by Outagamie County sheriff's Lt. Jack Zuelzke and Clintonville Police Chief James Beggs, Flink said he and two juvenile companions divided the $45 loot after escaping in a waiting automobile outside the night club. Flink allegedly obtained a .22-caliber pistol last summer at an Army surplus store in Las Vegas, Nev.

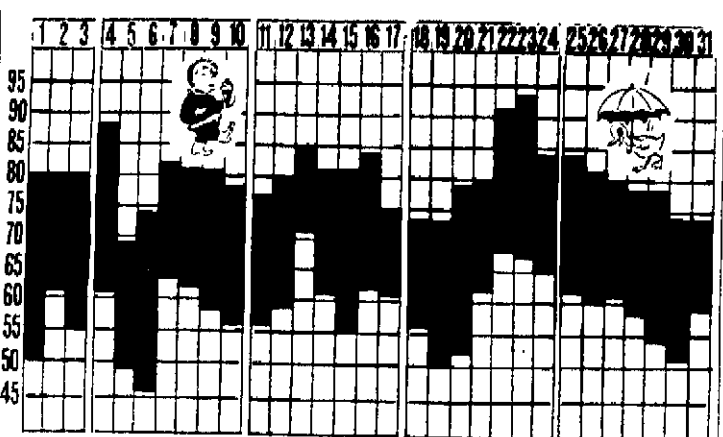

Confesses to Theft
Flink also confessed taking $1,500 from the home of his grandfather, Albert Flink, Town of Bear Creek, Waupaca County, to finance his western trip. The theft, however, was never reported to Waupaca County authorities.

Flink is being held in the

July Held '65 Summer To Subnormal Coolness

Summer continued its cool trend throughout July. The monthly mean temperature of July dropped below 50 on the 6th, 2 degrees was 3.1 below normal on the 5th and 6th to mal and included extremes of 93 and 46.

Only two days, as compared with 1964, when the temperature was in the 80s and 90s for 17 days. Waupaca County Jail, and his two companions, both 17, whose names are being withheld, are being held in the Shawano County jail.

Flink said one 17-year-old companion who entered the night club with him and helped tape the patrons, was wearing a trench coat and saddle shoes and was mistaken for a woman companion. All three are being held for investigation and court action pertaining to shoplifting of merchandise amounting to over $2,000 from stores in a four-county area.

Valley Scout Unit Names Chairmen

Paper Service Unit to Set Up Booth at Fair

The Wisconsin Paper Industry Information Service, Neenah, will set up a question booth at the State Fair to be held Aug. 13-22 at West Allis. Fairgoers will be able to test their knowledge about paper making on automatic polling machines using true-false or multiple-choice questions. Sheets with the correct answers will be given visitors after they have taken the tests.

Both Showers and Cooler temperatures are forecast for tonight over the Great Lakes. Rain is expected also in the northern Rockies, coastal areas of Texas and Louisiana and central Florida. Ohio Valley and upper Atlantic coast states will have cooler weather, while warmer temperatures spread over the Mississippi valley and much of the Plains. (AP Wirephoto Map)

Temperatures Climb Back to Normal Level

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A gradual warming trend began today to push the mercury toward normal levels.
Temperatures early this morning were generally higher than those early Monday. The Superior region, with 43, was the coldest place. The reading broke a record for the date in northern Wisconsin city. Previous low was 46 in 1933.
Other lows in Wisconsin were in the 50s, ranging from 53 at Milwaukee to 59 at La Crosse and Lone Rock.

Rain Widespread
Some showers and thunder showers spread from the northwest to the southeast Monday night. Superior's .27 of an inch topped the total rainfall. Green Bay had .17. Wausau 1.0, Park Falls .03 and Lone Rock and Madison .01.

Parents' World Daughter Suddenly Quite Critical of Mother, Home

BY DR. EVE JONES

Dear Dr. Jones: What makes a pleasant, well-behaved young lady turn into a shrew? Our daughter, now 14, was always a lovely girl who seemed to be happy with her family. That is, that's what she used to be like. But ever since she joined a girls' club a few months ago, humor about her remarks. Don't let them get under your skin and don't try to ignore them. Deal with them the way a smart businessman deals with foolish suggestions he gets from people who don't understand his business: tell her you're grateful that she has given such matters so much thought and you'll take her ideas under advisement. She'll be satisfied once she's sure you're respecting her right to offer suggestions. Then she'll probably turn her attentions to improving herself and her girlfriends.

Dear Dr. Jones: In the town where I previously lived, I heard of a method of punishing a 4-year-old boy by spanking him with a wooden spoon. In your opinion, should I try it? Mrs. M.E.

That should have gone out with the old label on a popular kitchen scouring powder. Spanking—whatever the instrument of punishment may be—is an ineffective way of encouraging a child to cooperate with reasonable requests. And it's an illegitimate way of overriding his obligation to protest unreasonable requests. If you have some specific questions about how to guide and discipline your own children, why not write and let's see about figuring out a sensible and productive approach you can use.

For your copy of "To Spank or Not to Spank," by Dr. Eve Jones, please send 25 cents along with a self-addressed stamped envelope in care of the Post-Crescent.

Paper Industry Unit Elects Information Committee Chairman

Douglas A. Morrissey, advertising manager of Fox River Paper Corp., Appleton, has been elected chairman of the Wisconsin Paper Industry Information Service steering committee. The organization, which has its offices in Neenah, is an association of the state's major paper manufacturing firms. Morrissey has been long identified with industry communication and promotion activities. As steering committee chairman, he will have the responsibility of overseeing the service's day-to-day activities.

Recodified Ordinances Ready for Delivery

Final copies of Appleton's recodified ordinances are on their way to the city, according to information received Monday in the office of City Clerk Elden Broehm.

The Madison law firm aiding the city in the recodification notified Broehm Monday that copies of the code, printed and bound, were ready for shipping.

North Central Shows Gain In Passengers

July Total at New Port Higher Than at Old Facility in '64

Passenger volume handled by North Central Airlines during the first month of operation at the new Outagamie County Airport has increased considerably over the same period one year ago at the old county airport in the Town of Grand Chute.

An increase of 59 passengers ending their flight at the airport in July was noted by Jermain Jolitz, manager of North Central's Appleton terminal. In addition, he said, passengers originating flights here increased by five to 545.

Other July figures showed declines, however. Originating freight was down, 9,137 pounds to 8,329 pounds; terminating freight was down, 11,988 pounds to 9,965 pounds; originating express was down, 2,346 pounds to 702 pounds, and terminating express was down, 3,660 pounds to 1,695.

Increased figures were noted in originating and terminating mail, up from 1,675 pounds to 3,173 pounds and up from 1,295 pounds to 1,589 pounds.

Passenger Gain
Originating passengers showed a gain of eight over June, the last month of North Central operations at the old airport. However, passengers ending their flights here dropped from 572 to 548. Declines were noted in every category except originating mail and express.

Jolitz was optimistic, however, because he said "July normally is our slowest month because it is a heavy vacation month." And he pointed that the gain of eight passengers over July of 1964 is even more startling because the Fox Cities were served by a flight to Minneapolis-St. Paul one year ago and the flight has been discontinued.

Jolitz explained the decline in air express was caused by a new air express terminal which is being operated at the Winnebago County Airport at Oshkosh. He said all packages are taken to the Winnebago airport by the Air Express trucks, leaving only individual customer deliveries for the Outagamie airport.

Jolitz said he is optimistic about a business increase, in passenger, freight and express categories, in the near future because of the glamour of the new airport, the end of the vacation season, and "the improvement of the consumer attitude since the Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) controversy has died down."

Fire Which Began Among 500 hay bales stored in an abandoned barn on E. Calumet Street, quickly destroyed the barn and a nearby shed today. Calumet police think that two youths may have been in the barn only moments before the fire was seen by neighbors and the Town of Harrison Volunteer Fire Department was called. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Old Barn - 'Playhouse' for Children - Burns to Ground

Fire Destroys Building, Nearby Shed on Appleton's Outskirts

The abandoned barn with the special Tarzan vine, the "secret" place to play for Appleton children for about 15 years, was destroyed this morning in a billowing fire near the Appleton city limits in the Town of Harrison.

Fire, which apparently began somewhere among over 500 bales of hay stored in the dilapidated barn on E. Calumet Street near Outagamie County Trunk KK, destroyed the barn and a nearby shed.

Town of Harrison Asst. Fire Chief George Dietzen said the fire began about 10:45 a.m. today and burned itself out shortly before noon. Firemen used only about 500 gallons of water at the scene, most of it in an effort to save surrounding buildings.

Billowing smoke and towering flames which frightened horses at a neighboring ranch and alerted the owner to the fire, attracted hundreds of southside children.

Calumet County authorities think, after talking to several youngsters, that at least two youths were playing in the barn moments before the fire broke out.

Calumet County Patrolman Rodney Ott said two youths in a field across from the burning barn saw two other boys running south from the barn, then saw the smoke billowing from the barn roof. The youths supplied a description of the two boys.

Only Storage Barn
The farm, which is owned by three Appleton men, Joseph Grishaber, Mark Emmers and Clarence Williams, has been abandoned and used for hay storage for many years. One owner at the scene said he did not know if the buildings on the five-acre tract were insured. He said only the hay was of any value.

Daniel Limpert, 13, of Calumet Street, and Glen Schubert, 9, 2314 S. Greenview St., said however, the barn housed at least two donkeys which they visited often while playing in the barn. They did not know if the animals were in the barn today.

The youths said they and others played on a "Tarzan vine," rope hanging from the rafters of the barn and among the hay bales. They estimated "several dozen" neighborhood children knew of the special vine and played in the barn.

The large farm home located near the burned-out barn was without windows and doors and was a meeting place for older children, many who apparently used knives and matches to put their own and other initials on the walls.

One visitor carved "the home of Ringo Starr" near the rear entrance of the home. Ringo Starr is a popular member of the English singing group, The Beatles.

Some years ago, visitors at the home found an abandoned cardboard box of Christmas tree decorations and placed them on a large evergreen tree in the front of the home. The tree, still decorated, survived the fire.

Mother Finds Son Dead in Car Bed

Thomas C. Mielke, 3 month old son of Mr. and Mrs. James Mielke, 524 E. McKinley St., died Monday of natural causes, Outagamie County Coroner Bernard Kemps said today.

The child was found dead in a car bed by his mother. She had been shopping, she said. The child had been born April 28, 1965 and was listed as dead on arrival at an Appleton hospital.

Record Cargo Tonnage Carried on Mississippi

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — A record of 36,516,345 tons of cargo was carried on the Mississippi River between the mouths of the Ohio and Missouri rivers in 1964, Army Engineers say.

Cargoes on the middle Mississippi increased more than 2.75 million tons over the record 35,726,911 tons set in 1963.

Little Chute Value Tops $7.5 Million

$85,725 Gain in Residential Improvements Largest Hike

LITTLE CHUTE — The 1965 assessed valuation of the village has been set at $7,550,375, an increase of $149,440 over the 1964 figure of $7,400,935, according to figures released by Nick Vanderpas, assessor.

Largest gain this year was in residential improvements which increased $85,725 from $4,76,225 in 1964 to $4,851,950. New construction in the village during the year was below that of recent years, noted Vanderpas.

Based on last year's tax rate of $66 per $1,000 in school district No. 1 and $49.10 in district No. 2, the increased assessment would result in about $10,000 additional revenue to the community.

Value of residential land was increased $25,175 from $833,800 to $858,975 and mercantile land value was increased $150 to $98,075. Mercantile improvements were increased $11,125 to $392,000 from $380,875. Value of manufacturing land was increased $1,800 to $5,250.

Manufacturing improvements were listed at $237,900 in 1964 compared to $253,900 in 1965, an increase of $16,000. Agricultural land value was increased $3,225 to $85,475 and agricultural improvements decreased $175 to $18,000. Pasture land value remained at $4,625 and personal property value increased $1,790 to $470,325.

Nine taxpayers appeared to protest assessments and several minor adjustments were made, according to the assessor.

Taxable property is assessed at approximately 40 per cent of true market value, said Vanderpas. Tentative plans call for doubling assessments in 1966 to bring them up to more realistic figures in relation to state's recommended full value.

If the assessed valuations are doubled, the tax rate probably will be cut in half, depending on how much of an increase there is in next year's budget and how much income there is from other sources.

Committee Asked to Add 5 Men to Outagamie Police

Supervisors Told Increase Needed To Provide 24-Hour Protection; Trained Dogs Future Possibility

Requests for the addition of five new Outagamie County policemen and possibly for trained police dogs were taken to the county board's executive committee Monday afternoon by Supv. John Schreiter (Appleton 6), chairman of county board's courts and law enforcement committee.

Schreiter, who was trying to win executive committee support for his committee's plan which will be presented to the county board next Tuesday, said the added policemen would enable the county to have round-the-clock law enforcement.

Coupled with the proposal, Schreiter asked for permission to take bids on automobiles as a preliminary step in his committee's drive to establish a policy of county-owned squad cars.

Schreiter told the executive committee the proposal would assure the county of 24-hour police protection.

Nine Patrolmen Employed
Presently, the county traffic police department has a captain, two sergeants and nine patrolmen who work between 7 a.m. and 2 a.m. However, the captain (Ronald Decker), underwent surgery recently and has not worked since early in June. By adding five new patrolmen to bring the total to 16, Schreiter said four shifts of four patrolmen each would be available.

He explained to the executive committee that the county is divided into four patrol zones. With four traffic patrolmen on duty for three eight-hour shifts, the law enforcement committee chairman said a patrolman could be assigned to each zone on each shift.

With four shifts available to alternate on the three, patrolmen would work six days, then have two days off.

Because of complaints that sheriff's investigators are not always available to answer complaints at night, the committee has recommended that traffic patrolmen be used to answer some of the complaints, primarily in homes and in taverns.

Delegate Authority
Schreiter said that by delegating this authority to the traffic police, it would relieve the sheriff's investigators of 50 per cent of the present complaints.

However, the executive committee was told that one policeman should not be sent along to answer most types of complaints. Schreiter said during the night hours he would recommend the four patrolmen work in two teams in two squad cars, or, as a long-range alternative, four patrolmen would use four squads with each man having a trained police dog as a "companion."

In order to maintain 24-hour duty by sheriff's department investigators, the law enforcement committee has given Sheriff Calvin Spice authorization to Page 3, Col. 4

Appleton Firemen Ask for Pay Hike In '66 Proposal

Local 257 Preparing Contract for Shorter Hours, Longer Vacations

Appleton firemen made their 1966 contract requests Monday night in a proposal which included a total pay raise of 13 per cent, shorter hours, longer vacations and other fringe benefits.

The firemen, members of Local 257 of the International Association of Firefighters, presented their requests to the city council personnel committee.

A 1965 contract agreement has not yet been reached between the city and the union, but it is expected to be included in a package contract with the 1966 agreement.

Reasons for Raise
Included in the firemen's request was a 3 per cent cost of living raise, and a 10 per cent raise which representatives of the union said would help bring firemen up to the level of other skilled laborers.

They proposed this as the first step of a series of raises to eventually bring firemen's pay into the same range with members of the building trades.

The request also asked the hours be cut from the present 63 per week to 56. Thus, the spokesmen said, would require the hiring of about nine new firemen.

Time-and-Half Overtime
Overtime would be paid for any time over this work week, amounting to time-and-a-half, except for emergency calls, which would require a minimum of two hours at double time.

The union requested the same longevity pay changes as it did for the 1965 negotiations — from $120 and $200 after five and 10 years, to $120, $240 and $360 after five, 10 and 15 years.

They also asked that the city make available to firemen life insurance provided by the Wisconsin Group Insurance Board for Wisconsin municipal employees.

Under the new contract, vacations would be one week after one year, two weeks after two years, three weeks after 10 years, four weeks after 18 years, and five after 25 years.

Other Benefits
Other demands included extra pay for firemen acting in the capacity of a higher rank, retroactive pay for promoted firemen who have been serving in the capacity to which they were promoted, and job classification of alarm operators.

Not included in the 1966 demands, but still pending in the 1965 negotiations are uniform allowances and health insurance.

Bids were to be opened this afternoon on a new health insurance plan for all city employees, to which the local has reportedly agreed.

The uniform allowance proposal would change the present initial allowance of $200 and yearly allowance of $75 to $225 and $100 respectively.

The personnel committee did not comment on the proposals, but scheduled another meeting for 8 p.m. Monday.

Appleton Red Cross Delegates Learn Unit's Part in Disaster Plan

Two representatives of the Appleton Red Cross chapter learned that the chapter should set up a disaster committee of five when they attended a meeting of 22 chapters July 28.

Mrs. Donald Morrissey, 2110 Palisades Drive, a national field volunteer, and Mrs. Kay Kirshberg, 809 S. Locust, executive secretary, participated in the dinner meeting of the Combined Service Territory of Southeastern Wisconsin. The host was the Milwaukee-Waukesha chapter.

The chapters were told that each must line up a committee to study and be trained in disaster preparation and work. The purpose of the CST unit, set up nine months ago, is to unify the chapters for mutual aid in disaster situations and make the resources of the nationwide chapter in Milwaukee-Waukesha available to the others.

Receipts Compared
The latter figure does not include the anticipated $24,000 first interest payment on a proposed bond issue. Estimated receipt comparisons show state aids increased from $10,105 to $11,000; handicapped aids decreased from $160 to $50; county aids held at $3,850; sale of books decreased from $1,767 to $1,500; milk sales decreased from $1,517 to $1,500; transportation aids decreased from $664 to $650; room rent held at $900; other receipts decreased from $444 to $400 and interest on investments increased from $1,550 to $1,950.

Local taxes are expected to bring in $145,096 in 1965 - 66 compared to $105,575 in 1964-65. Leo Bronkalla, new superintendent of schools, outlined changes which may be anticipated in grade school in an effort to have the school qualify for flat aids rather than basic aids.

These included elementary supervision, speech correction, physical education, music and art supervision, decrease of class sizes and purchase of additional equipment.

Appleton Lutheran Church Combines Staff Installations, Services

Two new members of the Appleton Lutheran Church will be formally installed in services on succeeding Sundays.

Miss Carol Baker, parish worker, will be installed at the 8 a.m. and 10:45 a.m. worship. Miss Baker, who arrived at the church on July 1, has been working with youth activities, prospective membership visitation and Sunday School planning.

Mrs. Pauline Otto, full time church secretary, will be installed Aug. 15 at the 10:45 a.m. worship. Debt service for 1964-65 worship.

Calumet Prisoner Charged

Jail Escapees Won't Tell How It's Done

CHILTON — Two Calumet County jail prisoners whose attempt to gain freedom last week ended in a wild police chase in which one escapee was wounded, are not telling authorities how they walked away from the county jail here.

Undersheriff Lucille Kosmosky said both James Clark, 23, of Appleton, and Michael Towne, 20, of South Bend, Ind., have refused to tell sheriff authorities how they walked through three doors early last Wednesday night and escaped from custody.

Meanwhile, Clark, being held in the county jail Monday pleaded innocent to a charge of jail escape and asked for a preliminary hearing on a second charge of car theft. The matter was continued until Aug. 30.

Towne in Hospital
Towne, still confined for treatment of gunshot wounds at St. Elizabeth Hospital in Appleton, has not been charged in the escape try, Calumet County District Atty. F. J. Schmieder said today, and charges will not be filed until Towne is released from the hospital.

He is under guard at the hospital and is not allowed to receive telephone calls or visitors. His condition is fair, hospital authorities said.

Mrs. Kosmosky said jailers have been questioned about the escape and said that at least one of the heavy doors leading to the lockup section was securely locked, and that the other heavy door "may have been unlocked." She said the third door, a wooden one leading to the sheriff's office, has no key and is never locked.

No Investigation Set
Herman Greve, chairman of the Calumet County board's sheriff and traffic committee, said today that there has been no action regarding an official investigation into the escape.

He said he has "talked to the fellows" at the sheriff's department and said there was no mention of "conflicting stories" or rumors pertaining to unlocked doors at the jail.

He said the committee plans a meeting Tuesday but "it is doubtful if anything will come up (about the jail break) during the meeting."

Both Clark and Towne are alleged to have made good their walk-away from the jail, then used a stolen car to drive to Appleton, being pursued by Calumet County authorities.

The car was stopped inside the Appleton city limits when Chilton Police Chief Daniel Albedyll blasted a window in the escapee's car and wounded Towne, the driver, in the shoulder. He pleaded guilty to the charge.

Appleton Group Defers Action on Employee's Status

Reclassification of an employee of the Appleton Electrical Department was deferred by the city council finance committee Monday night pending a study by two city departments.

The finance committee action concurred with that previously taken by the personnel committee.

The employee, Vernon Jack, would be reclassified from an electrician I, at $535 a month to an electrician II at $580.

A study is to be made by the department of public works and the department of inspection to determine what change in duties the change in classification would require and if there would be any overlapping.

In other action Monday night, the finance committee concurred in the hiring of Lila Lipske as a clerk-stenographer for the police department, and approved tax protests totaling $25.26.

Appleton Man Fined By Winnebago Judge

OSHKOSH — Clarence A. Yurk Jr., 23, 1900 1/2 S. Jefferson St., Appleton, was fined $30 and costs by Judge James Sitter in Winnebago County Court today on a charge of speeding.

Yurk was ticketed by state police on U.S. 41, one-half mile south of U.S. 45 in the Town of Oshkosh, on July 10 when he was charged with driving 81 miles an hour in the 55 mph speed zone. He pleaded guilty to the charge.

Appleton Gets Land Deed for Street Section

Buchanan Will be Extended for New East High School

A deed for the extension of Buchanan Street south of Lourdes Drive was accepted by the city council streets and sanitation committee at a meeting Monday.

The street will provide access to the new Appleton High School East, scheduled for completion in 1967.

The property was deeded to the city by the family of Nick Schaefer, owners of the land.

Deny Angle Parking

A request from Faith Lutheran Church for permission to have the boulevard and curb along the length of the church's property on Alice Street reconstructed to allow angle parking was denied by the committee. The committee also denied the other request that the road through Bellaire Park be reconstructed. The park road has been the topic of a squabble between the city and area residents periodically for some time.

Okay Sewer Plans

In other action the committee approved plans to install sanitary sewer in Jackman Street, to Prospect Avenue, replacing an old and leaking one. Four homes are connected to the old sewer. The project is expected to cost about $3,000.

A request from the fire department for blacktopping and seeding at the new No. 1 fire station was deferred pending an investigation of the area. Vacating Hancock Street also will be investigated.

The committee received plans from Wisconsin Power Co. to install gas mains in Richmond, Franklin and State streets before paving is complete.

A preliminary resolution for grading and a sanitary sewer to the new municipal garage was received and passed on to the council.

Industrial Park Okay Expected

MENASHA — Preliminary steps were taken Monday night toward city purchase and annexation of 81½ acres in the Town of Menasha at a cost exceeding $250,000.

The Menasha Common Council is expected tonight to approve the purchase for an industrial park.

The area involved is the Schwarzbauer farm and Knorr properties. Meeting as a committee of the whole Monday, the council unanimously adopted a motion that the purchase of the property be referred to the planning commission and that the city attorney prepare an enabling resolution for the necessary funds.

Brandy Stolen in Boat Break-in MENASHA — A larceny involving breaking and entering was reported to Menasha police Monday.

Fred Holtgrewe, 325 Winnebago Ave., reported his boat at the Smith Park boat marina was broken into and a bottle of brandy taken sometime in the last week.

Holtgrewe said other boat owners have complained of the same offense after which only the liquor is found missing.

Holtgrewe's boat was damaged during the forced entry, police said.

'Showboat' Tickets to Go on Sale

NEENAH — Tickets for "Showboat," the summer musical of Riverside Players, will go on sale Thursday. The box office hours are from 1 to 5 and 6 to 8 p.m. Monday through Friday and 1 to 5 p.m. Saturdays and 2 to 5 p.m. Sundays.

The show will have two four-day weekend runs: Aug. 1-2 and Aug. 26-29.

Produced arena style, the identical seating arrangement is being offered this year which was provided for last year's musical "My Fair Lady."

If "Showboat" follows the pace set by "My Fair Lady," which was a complete sellout prior to the opening of the show, everyone should make a special effort to get tickets early.

It is possible to obtain seats by sending a check payable to the Neenah Park and Recreation Department with a self-addressed envelope and the staff will select and send the tickets.

Robert M. Eiss, 61, Head of K-C Staff Engineering, Dies

NEENAH — Robert M. Eiss, 61, 106 Adella Beach, division head of staff engineering of Kimberly-Clark Corp., died unexpectedly Monday afternoon.

He was born May 6, 1904 at Buffalo, N.Y., was a graduate of Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, Troy, N.Y., and was employed by Kimberly-Clark for 31 years.

He was a former trustee of the First Presbyterian Church and served on its planning committee.

He also was past president of the Kimberly-Clark Engineering Club, past president of the Lakeview School District, and a member of the regional planning committee, Theta Chi, national fraternity of engineers, and Menasha Club.

Survivors include the widow, one daughter, one son, one brother, one sister and three grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Wednesday at the First Presbyterian Chapel with the Rev. John E. Bouquet and the Rev. William Chapman officiating. There will be no visitation.

Memorials to the American Cancer Society and Heart Fund will be appreciated.

Profit Taking Overcomes Rise

Prices of Stocks Slip After 4 Days Of Steady Increases

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market paused from a series of advances and slipped irregularly lower early this afternoon. Trading was moderate.

Weakness in General Motors and some strength in gold-mining issues were features of the day.

The market had stretched its run of gains to four straight Monday, but not without a struggle, and this time profit taking overcame what bullish trend remained.

A generally lower tone prevailed among autos, steels, oils, rails, utilities and aerospace stocks.

The decline in GM was attributed to disappointment in Wall Street that directors had done no more than declare the usual 75-cent dividend. Some had hoped for a stock split or special dividend.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off 8 at 326.2 with industrials off 1.3, rails off .6 and utilities off .2.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was down 2.14 at 879.71.

The declines in both averages were moderate. A rise of more than a point by Du Pont and fractional gains by other key industries helped cushion the market indicators.

GM, which rose 1½ Monday sank as much as 2 points today, then pared the loss to a bit more than a point.

Steels seemed preoccupied still over the Sept. 1 strike deadline. Rails showed a string of fractional losses as they trimmed recent gains.

Laboratory for Electronics was off ¼ at 8½ on 27.400. Prices were generally higher in quiet trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Saymour Livestock

Cattle strong, canners and cutters 12½-14½, utility 15-16½, heifers 14-20, beef heifers and steers 18-25, bulls, 16-19½.

Calves 1.00 higher, choice to prime 28-32, good to choice 25-28, standard to good 22-25, throw outs 20 cents down.

Hogs, private treaty, no yardage or commission: Butchers 190-240 lbs., 22-23, ¾ sows 17-20½, boars 12-14.

Good dairy and beef type heifer and bull calves up to 10 per lb. over veal price depending on weight and conformity.

Calumet Board May Wrap Up Redistricting

Plan to Cut Number Of Supervisors From 24 to 16 on Agenda

CHILTON — Final action on county board reapportionment may be taken at the Aug. 10 session of the Calumet County Board of Supervisors.

The plan to reduce the number of supervisors from 24 to 16 was aired at a public hearing July 15.

Supported by the supervisors at the June session, the plan was formulated by a five-man committee of Louis Hultberg, Brillon, county board chairman; Gilbert J. Hipke, New Holstein, committee chairman; Oscar Kossman, Town of Chilton, George Schwalbach, Town of Harrison, and Assemblyman Wilmer Strubbing, former Town of Brillon supervisor. County Clerk Roland E. Miller, and F. J. Schneider, district attorney, worked with the committee.

Several persons at the public hearing praised the committee's efforts on the redistricting problem.

However, spokesmen for Hilbert entered a plea to retain their one supervisor. Under the plan Hilbert and the Town of Woodville would be combined into one supervisory district.

Under the proposed plan each supervisor would represent about 1,400 persons to uphold the one man-one vote reapportionment requirement.

Court May Step In
Schmider said it is important to submit an acceptable plan because the State Supreme Court reserves the right to intervene if a county is unable to reapportion itself satisfactorily.

Major changes under the proposed plan include the addition of a second supervisor for the Town of Harrison, which has 2,873 residents.

Chilton's and New Holstein's representation would be cut from four supervisors to two, and Brillon's would be cut from three to one.

Districts combined with one supervisor each would be Town of Woodville-Village of Hilbert, Town and Village of Stockbridge, and Town of New Holstein and Keil's Calumet County precinct.

Deadline Nov. 1
Unchanged districts would be towns of Brillon, Brothertown, Charlestown, Chilton, Rantoul and Appleton's 9th Ward.

The board is expected to take action at either this or the September session. The deadline for reapportionment is Nov. 1. Calumet County is entitled to 21 supervisors by law, but the committee felt reduction to 16 will allow room for expansion after the 1970 census.

Other business will include action on a resolution allowing the transfer of $35,000 from the general fund surplus to the jail annex account to cover the cost of construction of the office annex to the Calumet County jail.

St. Cloud Contractors
The 32-by-40-foot addition is under contract to the Feldner Construction Co. of St. Cloud, and will house a sheriff's office and conference room, a county traffic patrol office, radio room and public rest rooms.

Supv. Herman Greve, chairman of the sheriff's committee, estimated that the total cost of the concrete annex, including the interior, at nearly $40,000.

Also to be discussed is a transfer of $1,800 from the contingent fund to the plat book account. The sale of plat books eventually covers this cost.

Petitions for county aid for bridges will be considered at this session so that the amounts may be considered in the temporary budget.

Appleton Youth Faces Trial on Battery Charge

Robert Hulke, 18, 1702 S. Madison St., Monday pleaded innocent to battery and will face trial Oct. 4 in Outagamie County Court Branch 2. He was ordered to post $200 bond.

Appleton police have charged Hulke with an alleged attack on a Hilbert youth, James Walber, 18, Saturday night on W. College Avenue. Walber is believed to have been cut on the chin by a cardboard cutting tool which Hulke is alleged to have been carrying.

Waupaca Will Bid For Juvenile Home

Development Group Heading Drive to Get State Facility

WAUPACA — Waupaca will make a bid for the new training school for delinquent boys which will be built in northern Wisconsin.

However, competition from other counties and cities will be keen and Waupaca must find suitable sites as soon as possible and prepare a selling plan which can be presented to the state, Waupaca's Assemblyman Gerald K. Anderson said at a meeting Monday of the Waupaca Industrial Development Corporation, (WIDC). The group is sponsoring the drive to bring the school to the Waupaca area.

The meeting was attended by Clifford Johnson, president of the Association of Commerce and G. H. Stordock, secretary-treasurer of the A. C. Johnson and Stordock agreed to present the project at a board of directors meeting Wednesday in an effort to enlist the support of the entire community to have the school built in the Waupaca area.

Criteria Reviewed
Criteria for site selections prepared by the State Welfare Department was reviewed at the meeting and members of the WIDC will now be seeking possible sites which can be offered.

The school, which will be built north of a line from LaCrosse to Manitowoc, reportedly will cost $5 million and provide facilities for up to 300 boys. A site of at least 300 acres is needed for the school which will be similar to those at Wales and Plymouth in southern Wisconsin.

Anderson told the group they definitely should make a bid for the school but cannot go to the state with just wishful thinking. Specific sites must be found, specifications drafted for each side selected and then presented to the state. "You have to go in hard headed, have good facts about your sites and be ready to compete with people who are already standing in line," Anderson said.

Political Wrangling
Already there has been some political wrangling on where the school will be located, he said.

At least seven different areas have been mentioned with Merrill and Eau Claire being two of the areas that will be going all out for what can be called an "economic plum," Anderson told the group. Legislators of the north area joined forces to obtain passage of the bill that would put the school in northern Wisconsin but now each is promoting his individual locality, he added.

College Openings in New England
WINCHESTER, Mass. (AP) — The New England Board of Higher Education says colleges in the six-state region still have 3,000 openings for freshmen in September.

A prepared statement by R. K. Greene, chairman of the Hale County Red Cross Chapter and two of his associates said, "To the best of our knowledge no such political use of the blood bank has ever been made in this country, and we do not wish to be in a position of setting a precedent for it."

Divers, Racing Planes

1,000 Persons Attend Fly-In at New London

BY ROGER PITT
Post-Crescent Staff Writer
NEW LONDON — A record crowd of about 1,000 persons attended the sixth annual fly-in sponsored by New London Aviation Inc. Sunday at the airport about four miles east of here on State 54.

The Para-Naut Skydiving team, Appleton, thrilled the crowd with their performances throughout the day. Terry Warrick and George Waring had scheduled the first jump for 10:30 a.m., but were unable to leave the ground until 11:30 because of a dense cloud cover that remained most of the day.

Homemade Craft
A ceiling of 2,200 feet is needed before the divers can leave the ground. The first jump was a basic parachute exhibition. Later jumps demonstrated various acrobatics in the air. Heights of 7,000 feet were reached as divers used smoke bombs to allow spectators to follow them in the air. Warrick had 196 jumps going into Sunday and Waring, 142.

Early morning attendants of the fly-in were treated to an exhibition of homemade racer aircraft. Two Baraboo pilots flew in about 9:30 a.m. in planes they built. They had 65 and 100 horse power engines and had a top speed of 200 miles per hour. Cruising speed is 165 m.p.h.

The planes, with a short wing span and small body, buzzed the airport and put on an exhibition of the maneuverability.

Action at the airport got underway slowly about 7 a.m. following a rain through most of the night. A pancake breakfast was served throughout the day and refreshments were available.

Funds raised by the Aviation Club are used for maintenance and improvement of the local facilities which include two 2,600-foot sod runways.

Neenah Man Slashes Wrist, Is Fined $50

WAUPACA — Stanford B. Popovich, 21, 154 1/2 Tyler St., Neenah, was fined $50 and costs after pleading guilty to a charge of disorderly conduct Monday when he appeared in Municipal Justice Court.

Popovich was arrested Sunday after Undersheriff William Mork was called to an Ogdensburg home at 2:45 a.m. in answer to a complaint that someone had slashed his wrist with a razor.

When Mork arrived at the scene, Popovich, the person who had slashed his wrist, had left the council meeting Aug. 11. Chosen home. A 2 1/2 hour search was made by Belanger, Fran DeYoung, Don-unslept overnight in a woods was aid Vanderlois and Hjalmar found Sunday by a county traf-fic policeman.

When found, Popovich had bandaged his wrist. Fifteen stitches were required to close Johnson, World War 1 veteran for whom the post is named.

tion to hire part-time deputy sheriffs to serve summons. By using deputy sheriffs as summons - servers, Undersheriff Norbert Marx would be freed from that duty and would be used as the department's fifth investigator.

As a result, one investigator would remain on duty throughout the night to answer complaints and to conduct investigations.

Fulcer States Opinion
County Board Chairman Alvin Fulcer of Kimberly, who is head of the executive committee, told Schreiter that the executive committee should not make the recommendation to the full force made 386 speeding arrests during the past year, Schreiter said.

Two members of the executive committee (Joseph Weyers of Freedom and Marvin Babbitt of Seymour) said they were opposed to Schreiter's proposal.

However, the executive committee authorized Schreiter and the other members of the law enforcement committee to visit Manitowoc and Winnebago counties where 24-hour county police departments are operating with county-owned squad-cars. The committee will make the trips at county expense.

The plan, if approved by the county board next Tuesday, would go into effect Jan. 1, 1966.

During the discussion it was revealed that four state police made 2,000 speeding arrests in Outagamie County during 1964.

While the 12-man county police board and advised Schreiter the matter should be taken to the board by the law enforcement committee.

County Board Chairman Alvin Fulcer of Kimberly, who is head of the executive committee, told Schreiter that the executive committee should not make the recommendation to the full force made 386 speeding arrests during the past year, Schreiter said.

Decrease of 164 Persons in UCD Indicates Increase in Summer Jobs

Participants in Surplus Food Program Down To 10,642 in July but Pounding Up 22,463

NEW LONDON — A decrease in unemployment was reflected in the number of participants in the surplus food program conducted through United Counties Distributors (UCD) during July.

A slight decrease of 164 participants to a total of 10,642 was noted in July. However, products distributed amounted to 175,795 pounds, an increase of 22,463 pounds from June.

A sharp decrease was noted the previous two months as summer employment, mainly construction, resumed operation. Five of the nine counties served by UCD showed increases in participants and all but one showed an increase in poundage distributed.

Biggest Decline
Marathon County showed the sharpest decline in participants and poundage. Persons using the program dropped 331 to 1,630 and poundage decreased 1,411 pounds to 27,553.

Winnebago County also had a decrease of 118 participants, with 1,355 taking part in the UCD delivery. Poundage increased 2,946 pounds to 24,058. UCD delivered 20,668 pounds of products to 1,725 persons, an increase of 1,260 pounds and 12 people, in Outagamie County during July. Deliveries were made to 1,027 people, up 57, for a total of 17,237 pounds, a 3,700-pound increase in Waupaca County.

Fond du Lac County had 1,093 participants, who received 18,975 pounds of food, an increase of 123 persons and 4,038 pounds. UCD made deliveries in Portage County of 20,331 pounds of products to 1,123 persons in July, compared with 1,074 persons and 15,836 pounds during June.

Waushara County distributed 7,751 pounds of food to 468 people, up 1,859 pounds and 52 persons.

In Oconto County, 17 fewer persons received 4,438 pounds of surplus food in July. Totals were 19,855 pounds to 1,028 persons. UCD distributed 19,367 pounds of products, up 1,138 pounds, to 1,173 people, down 11, in Shawano County.

Theodore Thomas, UCD manager, listed August dates for distributions:

School Boards To Review Bill

Fox Cities Units To Discuss Action on Technical Facilities

Provisions of a bill recently passed making it compulsory for established school districts to create area technical schools will be reviewed by the five Fox Cities boards of vocational and adult education.

In a joint meeting at 7 p.m. Aug. 19 at Kimberly High School, the boards will review the bill, which passed in both houses, and determine further action.

Three of the five Fox Cities boards have expressed the desire to proceed with the development of such a school. They are Appleton, Kimberly and Menasha.

Look No Action
Neenah and Kaukauna have not yet taken official action. Under the bill's provisions, the state will have the power to create an area school if the districts have failed to act by 1970.

Carl Bertram, Appleton Vocational and Adult School director, said that if the Fox Cities act with reasonable dispatch, the area would be in a much better situation to get federal assistance, which is administered through the state board, for construction and equipment.

Since the bill was endorsed by Gov. Warren P. Knowles, it is expected that bill will be signed into law.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — She was crowned by Odrian in slinky white satin, to set off the milk whiteness of her hair. She traded wisecracks and kisses with Clark Gable, giving as well as she took. She was a tough customer, but soft as butter inside. This was the screen portrayal of Jean Harlow, the subject of two 1965 film biographies and a sensation-filled best-selling book. In her heyday of the 1930s she comprised all the glitter of the glamor period of Hollywood. It was a time when movie sex adopted sophistication — and an air of unreality. Pressures for censorship had been building up with the flaming-youth films of the 1920s. The

Comic Playing At Soldiering Tops TV Card

By TV SCOUT

6:30-7:30 (Channel 11) — Combat's "The Hell Machine" is a must for fans of Frank Gorshin, the brittle night club comic, who turns in a brave performance as a hot rod jeepster who fears enclosure more than breathless hairpin curves. Repeat

6:30-7:30 (Channel 4-5) — Burgess Meredith is the new principal of Mr. Novak's sleek, modern school. On his first day he gets a bitter taste of the future. Repeat

7:30-8 (Channel 4-5) — Don't expect too much from "Secrets of the Old Bailey" on Monday. Mystery fans will be more amused than shocked by this gabby tale about a murdered blackmailed London model. Repeat

7:30-8 (Channel 11) — Fuji has a toothache and that means trouble on McHale's Navy. Repeat

7:30-8:30 (Channel 2) — Hollywood Talent Scouts is jazzier than usual. First Eddie Adams introduces Jack Sheldon, a mean man on the trumpet, and then Cliff Arquette unveils the Frivolous Five, a quintet of Grandmothers addicted to New Orleans jazz.

8-9 (Channel 4-5) — Cloak of Mystery is definitely for men in the school of "How To Murder Your Wife." Henry Jones, desperate to get rid of his dumpling spouse (Kathleen Freeman), hires trigger-happy Robert Loggia for the job. Repeat

8:30-9 (Channel 11) — Peyton Place is in a weepy traveling mood as Kim again tries to frighten her parents into taking her back to New York; Swain announces he is leaving town to see the world, and Markham asks Rossi to take over his clinic in Peru.

9-10 (Channel 4-5) — Hullabaloo is a sprightly shivaree with host Trini Lopez, at his dreamy best. (COLOR) Repeat

9-10 (Channel 11) — The Fugitive's melodrama, "Brass Ring," has plenty of action and suspense in its carnival setting on a Santa Monica, Calif., pier. Repeat

9-10 (Channel 2) — "The Politicians" on The Doctors and The Nurses doesn't quite deliver what it promises: a hard-hitting expose of do-gooders who often do more wrong than right. Repeat

'Young Look' of 1920s

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Famed designer Edith Head, winner of seven Academy Awards, analyzes film fashions of the 1920s, as represented by Clara Bow: "Clara, whom I dressed in 'Saturday Night Kid,' symbolized the revolt of the age. She was the first of the let's-take-off-the-corset school; her outfits provided complete freedom of the body. The style of the time was no waist, no bra, with knees showing for the first time. It was the young look, which is the style today."

clamor mounted when the movies started to talk at the end of that decade.

Dialogue Different
"As long as films were silent, they had a ballet-like aspect on the screen," says Geoffrey Shurlock, now the industry's head censor as production code administrator. "But when you started discussing adultery in dialogue, then people became more concerned about morality in films."

Film czar Will Hays instituted a code as early as 1927. But nothing much was done about it until 1933. That was when the Catholic bishops, alarmed by possible damage to their flocks by racy films, created the National Legion of Decency to rate movies on moral content.

The wily Hays knew the legion could hit the industry right where it hurt: the box office. The code was tightened and placed in the hands of tough Irish-Catholic Joseph Breen. For more than 20 years the iron-fisted Breen office enforced such rules as:

Hays Code
"Adultery and illicit sex must not be explicitly treated, or justified, or presented attractively."

"Excessive and lustful kissing, lustful embraces, suggestive postures and gestures are not to be shown."

"Seduction and rape should never be more than suggested. They are never the proper subject for comedy."

Producers seemed little constricted by the code. The 1930s were romantic years, when depression-weary Americans were prepared to believe fantasies in which Joan Crawford rose from shopgirl to society queen.

Glamorous Heroines
The heroines of the 1930s possessed that patina of glamor that seemed to set them above the common crowd: the serene, icy Garbo, brilliant, electric Bette Davis, Katharine Hepburn, everyone's conception of a witty, beautiful heiress. Carole Lombard, Norma Shearer, Claudette Colbert, Myrna Loy, etc.

The most notable temptress of the '30s, Mae West, presented a travesty on sex.

With censors keeping a close eye on anything that hinted of sex, it would seem that the career of Jean Harlow would have been in jeopardy. Starting with "Hell's Angels" and "Public Enemy," she had become noted in films as the highly seductive platinum blonde.

Switching her trade-mark hair to red, she displayed her talent as a light comedienne in such films as "Labeled Lady," "Reckless," "Suzy" and "Personal Property." Her career seemed secure. But then in 1937 she was stricken with uremic poisoning and died in Hollywood at the age of 26.

Special Events

Peninsula Players — (through Sunday) Joseph Stein's Enter Laughing, 8:30 p.m., Theatre-in-a-Garden, Fish Creek. Sunday performance at 7:30 p.m.

Oshkosh Junior Theatre — (opens Wednesday) Musical Camelot, 8 p.m., Grand Theatre, Oshkosh. Plays through Saturday.

Once Upon a Time — (tonight and Wednesday) Rumpelstiltskin presented by Recreation Department's Children's Theater, 7 p.m. today, 2 p.m. Wednesday, Madison Junior High School. Mrs. Anne Glasner director.

Nancy Sinatra, daughter of singer Frank Sinatra, was granted a divorce last week from singer Tommy Sands, 27, in Santa Monica. Nancy, 25, told the court her former husband wanted neither marriage nor children. Sands, not in court, was ordered to pay $1 a month token alimony for four years. (AP Wirephoto)

South Vietnamese Repel Guerrillas

Casualties Light at Phuoc Binh

By EDWIN Q. WHITE
SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — South Vietnamese forces fought off one Viet Cong attack early today but suffered "heavy" losses in another attack on an outpost manned by six militiamen, a U.S. military spokesman announced.
Nine Communist guerrillas were reported killed in an attack on the district town of Phuoc Binh 75 miles northeast of Saigon. Vietnamese casualties were termed "very light."
The six militiamen were manning the Phuoc Xuyen outpost 65 miles west of Saigon.
The U.S. spokesman gave this report of other action in the war:
Guerrillas shelled the U.S. helicopter base at Soc Trang, in the Mekong Delta, Monday night with eight mortar rounds but no aircraft were damaged and casualties were "very light."

Helicopter Flown Out

As soon as the 20-minute attack started, the helicopters were flown out. They returned to the base shortly after midnight. Aircraft at Soc Trang, 100 miles southwest of Saigon, were similarly evacuated July 24 after several explosions that were believed caused by two or three mortar rounds.
A regional force company suffered "moderate" casualties and five civilians were wounded when two hand grenades exploded in the market place of Phuoc Toa, a district town 40 miles north of Saigon in D zone. The terrorists escaped.
Viet Cong casualties rose to 22 killed in a government operation 330 miles northeast of Saigon near Quang Ngai City. Fifteen suspects were detained and one guerrilla captured. Vietnamese casualties were "very light."

Heavy Strikes

In the air war in South Viet Nam, U.S. and Vietnamese fighter-bombers continued heavy strikes against suspected Viet Cong positions. The spokesman said an estimated 157 guerrillas were reported killed but the figure was not confirmed by body count.
The planes flew more than 250 sorties in the last 24 hours. A sortie is one flight by one plane.
Two U.S. Air Force F104s smashed a Viet Cong encampment 70 miles southeast of Da Nang, the spokesman said. Ten Viet Cong were reported killed there.

Senate in Reapportionment Fight Voting Rights Bill Set For Final House Vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — A landmark bill designed to assure Southern Negroes their constitutional right to register and vote is set for final house approval today.
But a fight over legislative reapportionment will delay Senate consideration until Thursday. And if Southern senators decide to fire a last barrage at the measure, final congressional passage could be delayed beyond that.
Still, there is no doubt of the outcome: Topheavy approval in both House and Senate of this compromise version of conflicting bills approved by both bodies earlier in the session. The major aim of the bill is to provide for the suspension of literacy tests and other tests used to keep Negroes from voting.

King to Speak At All-White Boys' School

Site Long Target Of Philadelphia NAACP Marchers
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., in the North to observe living and working conditions of Negroes, plans to address a rally outside the walls of all-white Girard College today.
Girard, actually a boys' school instead of a college, has been the target of civil rights picketing for three months.
Dr. King endorsed Monday picketing of the school by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

"It is very tragic that at this stage of the civil rights struggle — and at this stage of the growth of that struggle in Philadelphia — that a school has a barrier of segregation standing between it and the Negro people," he said.
Orphans' School
Established in 1831 under the will of Stephen Girard, Revolutionary War banker, the school is still restricted to "poor white male orphans." In 1831 it stood in suburban surroundings, but now it is in the heart of a large Negro district and near the scene of Negro rioting last summer.

Dr. King called the school a symbol of the rejection and deprivation inflicted on the Negro people, and added, "we have to remove that symbol."
Besides the picketing, demonstrators from time to time have tried to scale the wall around the school or have blocked traffic in street marches. Police-men are stationed at the school 24 hours a day. More than 20 demonstrators were arrested Monday night on breach of the peace and disorderly conduct charges.

Dr. King, head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, predicted, "If the North is not eternally vigilant, it won't be long before the South runs ahead in race relations."
Cranberry Damage
BOSTON (AP) — The long drought has caused serious damage to the cranberry crop of Cape Cod, the state says. About 100,000 barrels have been lost so far.

Footprints Give Hope Lost Boys Still Are Alive
MILLINOCKET, Maine (AP) — The discovery of footprints in mud spurred hope today for a 1-year-old diabetic and his 3-year-old brother missing since Friday in the mountains of Baxter State Park.
Robbie Mott of Rochester, N.Y., needs 40 insulin units daily to combat his diabetes.
Warden supervisor David Priest, director of the 300-man search party, said his talks with doctors have convinced him that Robbie and his brother, Timothy, still may be alive.
The footprints were found Monday night three miles from Roaring Brook camp where the boys were camped with their parents. Mr. and Mrs. George Mott, and a sister, Martha, 15. The footprints matched those of the brothers.

Florida Train Has First Run In Two Years
MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Two Florida East Coast Railway passenger trains, first to roll in 30 months, made the 365-mile run between Miami and Jacksonville Monday. The company charged that 60 feet of track was sabotaged.
The FEC reluctantly resumed passenger service for the first time since 11 nonoperating unions struck for higher wages on Jan. 23, 1963.
It is the longest rail strike in U.S. history and is still going on.
Company officials and prominently displayed posters warned passengers the railroad would not be responsible for their safety. Fourteen persons rode the southbound train into Miami and 498 boarded at Miami for the northbound trip.
FEC President W. L. Thornton said spikes had been pulled from 60 feet of rail near Stuart, 100 miles north of Miami. A foreman said he noted the spikes missing.
The FBI was called to investigate. The track were repaired before the southbound train went past.

Combat Power Would be Increased Reserve-Guard Merger Plan Seen As Hopeless; Vance Asks Okay

WASHINGTON (AP) — The drastic realignment of the Reserve Guard merger plan to merge Army Reserve units into the National Guard, a congressional source said today, is a compromise of some kind.
The best they can hope for is a compromise of some kind, the source added.
Deputy Secretary of Defense Cyrus R. Vance obviously is hoping for more than that.
Vance told Rep. F. Edward Hebert's House Armed Services subcommittee Monday in making a strong appeal for the merger:

"We must get on with the job. Every month of no action translates directly into a month's postponement of the achievement of greater usable combat power in the central Reserve."
Vance said Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and the Army chief of staff, Gen. Harold I. Johnson, disagreed with the arguments against Vance disclosed plans to get started next month speeding the training and strengthening the combat power of three Reserve divisions, six independent brigades and some other units.

"This is being done so that if a callup of Reserves should become necessary, we will have selected units which can respond even more quickly," he said.
While Vance pushed for approval of the merger, he told

Confidence Vote in Offing Fist Fights Erupt In Greek Parliament

By PHILIP DOPOULOS
ATHENS (AP) — The Greek Parliament headed into its second night of debate on a confidence motion for the government of Premier George Athanasiadis Novas after a stormy opening session punctuated by fist fighting.
With supporters of ousted Premier George Papandreou unwilling to speak, it was believed possible the 300-member parliament would be ready by Wednesday night to take the confidence vote. It was almost certain to unseat the premier King Constantine named after he ousted Papandreou.
The debate started Monday night amid heckling from Center Union deputies committed to Papandreou. It turned into a free-for-all as Rightist National Radical Union (ERE) members went after Center Union deputies with flying fists. Police rushed in and broke up the brawl after five minutes.
Lack of Quorum
Attempts to begin the debate last Friday failed because a boycott by opponents of the 19-day-old government prevented a quorum.
The quorum was met Monday night when the Center Union and the 22-member pro-Communist United Democratic Left (EDA) sat in during the debate without taking part. The 77-year-old Papandreou did not attend.
Constantine, 25, flew in unexpectedly from his Corfu Island summer palace just before the session began. He conferred with Athanasiadis Novas, the 72-year-old Center Union politician he appointed after firing Papandreou on July 15 in a dispute over political activity in the armed forces.

Information Needed in Coeds' Deaths

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Police promised anonymity to anyone who can provide information in the slayings of Shirley Ann Stark and Susan Rigbsby.
The investigation extended to the funerals of the attractive 21-year-old sorority sisters Monday in Dallas, Tex.
Plainclothes officers mingled with about 500 persons at each service. Informed sources said police filmed the congregations and inspected registry books in the church folders.
Rites for Miss Rigbsby were at Lover's Lane Methodist church and for Miss Stark at St. Matthew's Episcopal Cathedral. They were buried a short distance apart in the same cemetery.
The coeds disappeared July 18 in Austin after driving here from Dallas for Miss Rigbsby to enroll at the University of Texas. The decomposed bodies were found last Friday amid high weeds near the north edge of Austin.

Jesse Gonder's Pinch Double Defeats Giants

Johnson Gets Win; Kelley to Face Dodgers Tonight

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Jesse Gonder is doing what he said he'd do and the Milwaukee Braves are closing in on the top spot in the National League.

The left-handed pinchhitter, acquired recently from the New York Mets, had expressed confidence that he'd deliver a few key hits for the Braves in their pennant drive.

Gonder got such a hit — a bases-loaded double — Monday night as the Braves defeated San Francisco 4-2 and moved to within two and one-half games of first-place Los Angeles.

The Dodgers open a three-game series at County Stadium tonight with Claude Osteen, 8-11, expected to take the hill for the Dodgers. He'll be opposed by Dick Kelley, 1-1.

"I hope I get a few more before I leave here," said a happy Gonder after he drove in three runs with his pinch hit and set up the fourth in Milwaukee's fourth inning uprising against Giants' starter Gaylord Perry.

Braves' Manager Bobby Bragan had inserted the journeyman Gonder into the lineup in the place of weak-hitting Woody Woodward after the Braves' fourth inning error and an intentional walk to Frank Bolling.

Gonder hit the first pitch on a line to right to clear the bases. Tony Cloninger went in to run for Gonder and scored the final Braves' run on Felipe Alou's single.

Ken Johnson, who won his 12th game of the season against 12th game of the season against five defeats, made the four runs stand up.

Johnson surrendered a solo home run to Willie Mays in the sixth inning. The only other Giants' run came in the third on a throwing error by Frank Bolling after a walk to Dick Schofield and a single by Perry.

The Braves have now won 16 of their last 21 games. Their only losses since July 14 have been at the hands of the Giants, who took the first two games of the five game series that closed Monday night. The Braves took the last three.

Orioles' Barber Sidelined With Back Trouble

MINNEAPOLIS — ST. PAUL (AP) — Baltimore left-hander Steve Barber was forced to leave the Minnesota-Orioles game in the fourth inning Monday when either a vertebrae or muscle popped out of place in the lower area of his back.

Orioles officials said it was the first time Barber has been bothered by such an ailment.

Barber summoned Orioles trainer Eddie Weidner and Manager Hank Bauer from the dugout with a 3-1 count on the Twins' Frank Quilici in the last of the third inning.

Weidner put the muscle or vertebrae back into place, and Barber continued pitching the remainder of the third inning when Minnesota scored two unearned runs off him.

When Barber went to the dugout following the inning, he told Bauer of a recurrence and Bauer replaced him.

Weidner said a more complete diagnosis would be made of Barber's injury.

Weak Right Ankle

Hornung, who served a one-year suspension in 1963 for betting on football games, thinks a weak right ankle was the reason for his kicking failures in 1964. He missed 26 of 38 field goals and two of 41 points after touchdowns, one of which was the difference in a 24-23 loss to Minnesota.

"I don't think pressure had anything to do with it," said Hornung. "I noticed when I was kicking that my foot wobbled. I think it stemmed from the time I hurt my knee real bad in 1962. So far, I haven't done much kicking but I hope to do more later, once I get my leg in shape."

During the off season, the Packers picked up Don Chandler, a fine punter, in a deal with New York. Chandler also is an accomplished place kicker.

"Last year I was so determined to make up for missing a year that I came to camp in too good shape. I weigh about the same but I am not in as good shape. I want to work myself into top condition in practice and the exhibition games. Last year I was ready to play a game the first day of practice."

Tight End Allen Brown Lost To Green Bay Indefinitely

Has Surgery On His Right Shoulder

Post-Crescent News Service

GREEN BAY — The Packers today lost their "No. 1" draft choice indefinitely.

Allen Brown, 6-4½, 230-pound tight end from the University of Mississippi, underwent surgery on his right shoulder at St. Vincent Hospital this morning.

Coach Vince Lombardi announced, and may not be available until mid-season, if at all.

Brown reported to the Pack from the College All-Star camp over the weekend with an injured shoulder, Lombardi explained, adding, "after an examination, Dr. Nellen (Dr. James W. Nellen, team physician) decided immediate surgery was necessary."

This development dealt a body blow to the '65 phase of Green Bay's youth movement for, although officially the Packers' No. 3 choice in last January's collegiate draft, he emerged as the premier signee after Nos. 1 and 2 (Larry Elkins of Baylor and Grambling's Alphonse Dotson) were lost to the AFL.

Barring personnel switches, it also set the stage for a two-man struggle behind Marv Fleming, heir to the departed Ron Kramer's tight end spot, with Jim Thibert of Toledo U. and the United Football League and Wofford's John Housel as the principals.

Will Stay Off Roster

Brown, one of three Packer draftees in the All-Star camp (center-linebacker Bill Curry of Georgia Tech and Washington halfback junior Coffey are the others), will not be officially added to the roster until he has been pronounced ready to play, Lombardi revealed.

His loss at least temporarily reduces the overall squad to 57, including 38 veterans. This figure includes Curry and Coffey, who are scheduled to report Saturday, following Friday night's match between the world champion Cleveland Browns and the All-Stars in Chicago's Soldier Field.

Both Thibert and Housel have impressed the Packer brain trust to date with their blocking skill, a prime requisite at T. E. 1963, fractured his right ankle and sure hands. Physically, there is little to choose between Thibert's 6-3, 240, Housel's 6-4, 230. Age could be a factor here, however, since the former is 25. Housel is only 22.

Tom Davis Takes Cast Off Leg; Expected for Pinch-Hitting in Month

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Los Angeles Dodger outfielder Tom Davis has the cast on his right leg removed Monday.

Davis, the National League batting champion in 1962 and skill, a prime requisite at T. E. 1963, fractured his right ankle and sure hands. Physically, there is little to choose between Thibert's 6-3, 240, Housel's 6-4, 230. Age could be a factor here, however, since the former is 25. Housel is only 22.

Weak Right Ankle

Hornung, who served a one-year suspension in 1963 for betting on football games, thinks a weak right ankle was the reason for his kicking failures in 1964. He missed 26 of 38 field goals and two of 41 points after touchdowns, one of which was the difference in a 24-23 loss to Minnesota.

"I don't think pressure had anything to do with it," said Hornung. "I noticed when I was kicking that my foot wobbled. I think it stemmed from the time I hurt my knee real bad in 1962. So far, I haven't done much kicking but I hope to do more later, once I get my leg in shape."

During the off season, the Packers picked up Don Chandler, a fine punter, in a deal with New York. Chandler also is an accomplished place kicker.

Foxes Lose 5-3 Decision, Open 5-Game Home Stay

Launch Series Against Decatur With Booster-Night Attraction

The Fox Cities Foxes, currently residing in third place in the Midwest League's second round pennant scramble, launch a 5-day home stand at 8 p.m. today against Decatur at Goodland Field.

The Foxes closed out a road trip at Dubuque Monday night by dropping a 5-3 contest to the Packers.

Tonight's attraction, "Piggly Wiggly Booster Night," drew all the scoring in last night's free at Piggly Wiggly stores. 7,118 fans in 1964. Tickets are game was accomplished in the fourth inning. The Foxes started the fireworks with three runs in the top of the frame.

Curt Motion led off with a single and Bob Connolly walked. Elmore Hill singled in Motion and a double by catcher Dick Horton scored Connolly. Hill scored on a throwing error by Dubuque catcher Fran Healy.

Never Threatened

The Foxes never threatened seriously after the fourth, despite lead-off singles by Dick Hickerson in the seventh and ninth.

Dubuque broke loose for five runs when Foxes' hurlers Emmanuel Fitzgerald and Steve Herman encountered control trouble in the bottom of the fourth.

Jim Rudi walked and Roger Post grounded out for the second out of the inning, but Rudi scored on the play. Winning pitcher Jim Lortscher singled in another run and John Perkins fanned, but reached first on the wild-pitch third strike.

Fitzgerald's wild pitch brought on Herman, who promptly walked Ron Olsen to load the bases. Rick Underwood singled in two runs and then Herman walked Ron Manders and Rudi to force in another.

3 More Legion Teams Gain 'State' Berths

Five of the six entries have been determined for the State Legion baseball tournament, which starts Saturday at Goodland Field.

Stevens Point, Superior and Beloit qualified Monday night by winning regional titles. Previously, West Allis and Oshkosh had earned state berths.

Stevens Point won a pair from Ashland, 7-5 and 19-7 last night. Superior beat Eau Claire, 4-2, and Beloit edged LaCrosse, 1-0, in other regional title games.

The Clintonville - Marinette winner will be the final state-tourney team.

Hornung, Chandler Score in Scrimmage

DE PERE (AP)—Paul Hornung swept eight yards for the only touchdown Monday as the Green Bay Packers went through a spirited scrimmage.

Don Chandler, the Packers' kicking import from the New York Giants, took his first try at a field goal in scrimmages and split the uprisings with a perfect 40-yard boot.

The 40-minute workout left defensive captain Hank Gremminger limping after he twisted his knee, but the injury was not believed serious.

Ward's 2-Run Single Gives Chisox 2-0 Win; Dodgers Lose to Cards

Jim Hall's Pinch Homer Earns 6-5 Victory for Twins

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

A dip here and a wiggle there and everybody starts pointing fingers. It's getting so that an innocent little baseball can't have any fun anymore.

In San Francisco's 4-2 loss at Milwaukee Monday night, for example, a Gaylord Perry pitch dipped under Ken Johnson's bat and Braves' Manager Bobby Bragan, who's becoming an expert on the subject, screamed splitter.

Detroit's Denny McLain didn't believe teammates Dave Wickersham and Hank Aguirre who complained after Sunday's doubleheader in Chicago that the balls were cold and heavy. Then McLain pitched Monday night in a 2-0 White Sox victory and announced solemnly afterwards,

"The balls were cold and heavy."

Bragan, who said that his pitchers got away with throwing 75-to-80 splitters in a 9-2 loss against the Giants Friday night, accused Perry of throwing a super-splitter.

Bases-Loaded Double

Pinch hitter Jesse Gonder delivered a bases-loaded double, driving in three runs as Milwaukee scored all its runs in the fourth inning. Willie Mays hit his 25th home run for the Giants.

American League President Joe Cronin dispatched his umpire-in-chief, Cal Hubbard, on an inspection tour to determine at what temperatures baseballs were being stored following complaints from several Tiger players that the White Sox were providing frozen baseballs in Sunday's doubleheader.

Umpire Ed Hurley admitted the baseballs were cold but dismissed the matter, saying they might have been stored near an air conditioner.

Pete Ward's two-run single in the first inning produced both Chicago runs against McLain and Hoyt Wilhelm protected the victory for Gary Peters with two innings of airtight relief.

Minnesota lengthened its American League lead to six games with a 6-5 victory over Baltimore on Jimmie Hall's pinch homer in the ninth.

It was a costly victory though. Twins' slugger Harmon Killebrew suffered a dislocated left elbow in a baseline collision and will be sidelined for 10 days.

Relief pitcher Don Dennis worked out of a bases-loaded, none-out jam in the ninth as St. Louis edged Los Angeles 6-5. The defeat trimmed the Dodgers' National League lead to one.

Detroit's Cogdill In Fold; Four Vets Unsigned

DETROIT (AP) — Star pass catcher Gail Cogdill signed a new, two-year contract with the Detroit Lions Monday.

Cogdill, veteran offensive end, signed along with four other Lion veterans. Another four, including quarterback Earl Morrall, were still outside the fold of the National Football League club.

The Lions held their first full-camp day of practice under coach Harry Gilmer Monday at suburban Bloomfield Hills. They play their first exhibition game with the NFL's Philadelphia Eagles at Philadelphia Aug. 15.

Signing along with Cogdill were halfback Danny Lewis, defensive end Darris McCord, tackle Darv Sanders and line-backer Monte Lee, all for one year.

Unsigned, besides Morrall, were fullback Nick Petrosante, defensive end Sam Williams and defensive back Dick LeBeau.

Graham Has Problem Deciding on All-Stars' Starting Quarterback

Three Excel in Passing; Staubach Best in Running

By JOE MOOSHL
CHICAGO (AP) — Who will quarterback the All-Star show? That could be Coach Otto Graham's dilemma in choosing the starting signal caller for Friday night's College All-Star football game against the Cleveland Browns in Soldier Field.

Graham, who will direct the

All-Stars for an eighth straight year against the champions of the National Football League, usually makes his decision well in advance and then zealously guards the secret until the day of the game.

This time Graham might be playing senie - meenie - mynie - moe, himself, because he has what is probably the finest quartet of quarterbacks ever to grace an All-Star roster.

Taking them alphabetically — there is no other way — they are John Huarte of Notre Dame, Craig Morton of California, Roger Staubach of Navy and Bob Timberlake of Michigan.

Made Irish A Power
Huarte won the Heisman Trophy last year after spending two seasons on the Irish bench. Coach Ara Parseghian gave him the ball and told him "you're my quarterback."

Huarte and end Jack Snow — also a member of the All-Star squad — proceeded to help lift Notre Dame from the depths of oblivion to a national power position the Irish had enjoyed in the days of Knute Rockne and Frank Leahy.

Morton's name has been on the lips of every scout, coach and fan in the country whenever the question of passing is mentioned.

For the past three years this 6-foot-4, 215-pounder has passed his way to fame and very likely is the most accurate thrower in the All-Star camp. Nobody could dispute his selection.

Strong Runner
Staubach won the Heisman Trophy in 1963 and is heralded as the greatest football player to step out of the Naval Academy. In addition to his passing abilities, he also is a very strong runner.

"He's not a better passer than our other quarterbacks," says Graham. "But it's obvious he's a better runner and that makes him more an offensive threat."

Timberlake, who passed and ran Michigan to championships in the Big Ten and the Rose Bowl, has been a surprise. In the Big Ten he was rated a great runner and a fair passer.

"Not so," says Graham. "I always heard what a great runner this boy was. But Timberlake is a better passer than most people think. He throws the ball very well."

"I don't know what it was," White said of the spot he found. "It was clear, wet, and sticky. So I handed it to Johnson and said to him, 'Well, look at this.'"

Johnson did just that, then turned to plate umpire John Kibler. "There's your spitball," Johnson said he told Kibler, and the second chapter in the Milwaukee spitball saga of 1965 began to unfold.

Kibler had been behind the plate Friday night when Bragan ordered his pitchers to throw the illegal spitballs at the Giants. Bragan wanted to prove that National League umpires refuse to enforce baseball's long-standing ban against the pitch.

Johnson, who makes his living with a knuckleball, asked Kibler at the plate to throw the ball out and proceeded to cut down the Giants one-two-three.

Back to the mound came Perry for the bottom of the seventh. The first batter, Felipe Alou, rolled to third. The second, Mack Jones, struck out. Jones complained later that Perry got him on "one of the best spitballs" he'd ever seen.

Up to the plate next came Hank Aaron. Before the Braves' slugger faced Perry, he asked Kibler to examine the ball Jones had missed. Kibler did and threw it out.

Braves Claim Pitcher Threw 'Saliva-Plus'

Giants' Perry Denies Spitball Charge by White

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The saliva-plus pitch, sort of a jet-eject spitball, has given a sticky but sophisticated turn to the great Milwaukee spitball controversy.

The Braves claim there was more than just saliva on a strikeout pitch, thrown by San Francisco pitcher Gaylord Perry in Milwaukee's 4-2 victory over the Giants Monday night.

Perry denied he had doctored the baseball, but Braves' Manager Bobby Bragan insisted that Braves' coach Jo Jo White had detected a "spot of slick-um" on the ball after Perry struck out rival pitcher Ken Johnson to end the sixth inning.

"Bragan might say anything," said Perry. "You know how he is."

Perry himself would say nothing more.

Looks for Taint's
White, who says he has spotted licorice, tobacco juice and just plain saliva on baseballs in his 38 years in the game, habitually looks for tainted baseballs.

"If the ball is dirty or something like that, I say to the pitcher coming to the mound for our side, 'now you hide this son of a gun. There's something on it.'"

"I don't know what it was," White said of the spot he found. "It was clear, wet, and sticky. So I handed it to Johnson and said to him, 'Well, look at this.'"

Johnson did just that, then turned to plate umpire John Kibler. "There's your spitball," Johnson said he told Kibler, and the second chapter in the Milwaukee spitball saga of 1965 began to unfold.

Cards Re-Hire Schoendienst

Red's 1966 Pact Will Call for About $30,000

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The world champion St. Louis Cardinals, now mired in seventh place, relieved Manager Red Schoendienst of the blame Monday by rehiring him for the 1966 season.

The vote of confidence ended speculation that the 42-year-old Schoendienst might be replaced during this, his first year as a manager.

It also avoided the possibility of a repeat of last season's embarrassing situation when the Cardinals surged to win the pennant and the World Series against the New York Yankees after General Manager Bing Devine was fired and Manager Johnny Keane was reported out and Leo Durocher in.

Keane, bothered by the rumors that he would have been fired had the club not won, quit after the season and became manager of the New York Yankees.

Soothe Fillings
Schoendienst, then a Cardinal coach after spending most of his brilliant 17-year playing career as the St. Louis second baseman, was named to replace Keane in what was regarded partially as a move to soothe the angered feelings of the fans over the Devine-Keane happenings.

Schoendienst's new contract calls for about the same pay as this year which is estimated in the vicinity of $30,000.

August A. Busch Jr., president of Anheuser-Busch Brewery which owns the Cardinals, dispelled those rumors Monday. He said the decision to rehire Schoendienst was made in the last "five or six days."

Neither Schoendienst nor Busch would write off the Cardinals' changes this season, although after Sunday's game they were 9½ games behind the league-leading Los Angeles Dodgers.

"I've been disappointed in having so many injuries," Schoendienst said, "but we'll keep in there and maybe we can get a few breaks."

But despite these problems, Schoendienst said he "liked managing even more than I thought I would."

Gib Larson Wins Portage Tourney

PORTAGE (AP) — Gib Larson of Waukesha shot a one-under-par 69 Monday to take the Portage tourney on the Wisconsin PGA tour.

Larson had an even par 140 for the 36 holes and won $400. Amateur Willard Wendt of Lake Mills and Harry Simonson of Madison followed him with 145 and 146, respectively, while state amateur champ Ralph Schlacht of Madison faded to a 76 Monday and finished in a four-way tie for fourth at 147.

Veck Says Anti-Trust Suit Could be Great for Baseball

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The proposed antitrust suit against the nation's favorite pastime "could be a real bomb" — a great thing for baseball, Bill Veck said Monday.

The former baseball executive, often a caustic critic of the sport, said club owners were not frightened by Milwaukee County's threatened suit yet.

"Whenever it becomes a reality, they're going to discover that it's more serious than it was when they so blithely gave their approval to the Atlanta move."

New Ownership
The corporation counsel for the county has said the suit probably will be filed Thursday. The Milwaukee Braves management went to federal court late last month to start the legal struggle, asking a ban on any suits by the county and said.

Stinski's 67 Cuts Five Shots Off Ridgeway Par

Herb Stinski, 54-year-old Ridgeway Country Club linksman, toured his home course in 67 strokes, five under par, to highlight the scoring parade on the past week.

Other sub-par efforts were recorded by John Lindberg, a Fox Cities-area courses during the past week.

"3-under" 67 at Butte Des Morts; Dennis Babb, a "1-under" 70 at Reid Muni; R. A. (Bob) Martin, "1-under" 69 at BDM; Tom Hadley, a pair of 2-under regulation 70s and Bob Below, a "2-under" 70, both at Ridgeway.

Stinski used just 29 putts en route to nines of 33-34, including a chip-in on the 15th hole. He 3-putted the 10th green for a bogey. The 67 fell one stroke shy of the Ridgeway course record, which is shared by pro Bob Below, Tom Handley and Jim Grode. Stinski also posted a sub-par 70 and a 73.

Other sub-80 shooters at Ridgeway included Ray Doell, 76 and a pair of 77s; Dick Spangenberg, 77; Monte Luka, pair of 78s; Tom Goodrich, 76; Elmer Selig, pair of 74s; Ralph Sell, 77 and 79; Harley Loker, 74; Jim Hulsizer, 74 and Terry Galvin, 76.

Lindberg fashioned nines of 33 and 34 en route to his pace-setting 67 at Butte Des Morts. Martin, who holds the season low of 65 over BDM's par 70 trek, posted a 69 and a 72.

Tom Gustman totaled 138 to win the 36-hole July Handicap Tournament. Art Lemke and Pete Irwin shared the runnerup.

Harry Brown, Bill McGraw, McGraw's 77 set the pace at the Riverview Country Club.

The Men's Shotgun Tournament was won by the foursome of Lee Barlament, Ralph Knapp, "Frosty" Sprowl and Bernie Heseltin with a net score of 285.

Harry Brown, Bill McGraw, Neil McLeod and Russ Bauman combined for the runnerup honors with a 284 aggregate. At 298, were Don MacDonald, Art Miller, Vince Jones and Roy Joseph.

Pettritto Wins; Schmelzel Stars For Greenville

New London moved into first place in the southern division of the Badger Amateur Baseball Association after Sunday's action, with Greenville and Waukesha close on its heels.

New London downed Weyauwega, 10-0, while Greenville was beating Waukesha, 6-1.

Jim Pettritto hurled a 3-hitter for New London, fanning nine batters. He was backed at the plate by Pete Schise and Herb Wilde, who collected three hits apiece. Starter Dave Kohler was the loser.

Fran Schmelzel pitched 6-hit ball for Greenville, beating Kyle Winters. Greenville scored five times in the fourth inning on five hits and an error.

Next Sunday's games will pit Greenville against Weyauwega in a doubleheader and New London against Waukesha.

Mysterious Hand Ailment Hampered End Last Year

BIMIDJI, Minn. (AP) — Red Phillips' career as one of pro football's all-time top pass catchers, almost hit a dead end last year.

A mysterious hand infection put the 28-year-old former Auburn end on the Los Angeles Rams' injured reserve list. Three operations and one trade later he arrived recently at the Minnesota Vikings' camp eager to start a comeback.

"We expect Phillips to be one of our best receivers," said Coach Norm Van Brocklin of the Vikings, who gave up the draft rights to Notre Dame's Jack Snow to get Phillips and defensive tackle Gary Larsen.

Before Phillips came to the National Football League club's camp he underwent the third operation June 2. He spent eight days in a Los Angeles hospital while medicine was fed into his blood stream intravenously in a slow process that took six hours a day. He lost 15 pounds and arrived here looking like a man who needed a square meal.

In early practice sessions, Phillips wore a special pad over the right hand, covering the knuckle of the middle finger where the infection hit.

"I don't even know how it happened," said Phillips. "They tell me there are only seven or eight cases like mine in medical history. I had a scratch on the hand and the doctors think I picked up this infection out of the soil by falling on the grass last year at Orange, Calif."

There was such a swelling I couldn't bend my finger. It would go away and come back. I played five exhibitions and five regular season games before they set me down for the first time in my seven years with the Rams. It was hard to take but I knew I wasn't catching the ball good."

Phillips got sick and went to the hospital in mid season. They operated on the hand.

U. S. Wins Zone Cup Championship

Ashe and Ralston Defeat Mexicans in Straight Sets

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — America's proud and powerful Davis Cup team, with Mexico conquered and the American Zone Championship secured, turned its attention to Spain today and the Interzone Round there in Mid-August.

George MacCall, the U.S. team captain, said his charges were due to arrive in Barcelona at noon Wednesday to begin workouts for the clash with the Spanish Cup team.

Bolester by another sparkling effort from Arthur Ashe, the Americans rolled over Mexico Monday in the final singles matches to record a 4-1 triumph. A Mexican doubles victory Sunday prevented a clean sweep.

Seals Verdict
Ashe sealed the verdict for the United States by turning back Antonio Palafox in straight sets, 6-1, 6-4, 6-4, principally on his fiery service. He closed out the first two sets with aces, fired four straight sizzlers past Palafox at one point and generally appeared unbeatable.

Twelve times his aces left Palafox in a state of bewilderment and on eight other occasions the amiable Mexican failed to return the lightning serves.

"It was his booming serve," Palafox reflected in explaining his decisive setback. "I tried to break his concentration, but I couldn't do it. It was that booming serve."

Top-ranked Dennis Ralston disposed of Rafael Osuna in the finale, after the championship was determined, in a second straight-set victory — 6-0, 6-4, 6-4.

Although Ashe was the star of this show, MacCall pointed out to newsmen that Ralston "is really sharp now. His concentration is absolutely near perfect. He didn't let anything get past him and he ran down every point."

Osuna was no match for him, at any rate. In sweeping six straight games in the first set,

Heesakker Wins Fox Valley Club President's Cup

KAUKAUNA — Francis Heesakker, Little Chute, captured the President's Cup trophy in a sudden death play-off against Jerome Heiting at the Fox Valley Golf Club.

Playing a rain-interrupted match against 22 other finalists, the pair deadlocked after 18 holes with a net score of 64.

Heesakker won the match on the 19th hole.

Finishing behind Heiting was Jim Haas, with a net of 66. Don Peeters had a net of 67.

In women's Chairman's Cup for the competition, Kate Bootz took first with a net of 76. Carol Mkebizze and Shirley Heesakker had 80s and Dorothy Mengarelli had 85. Thirty-two women started competition and after match play the field was trimmed to four finalists.

Ralston dropped only six points. He once won 10 straight points to blank Osuna in two consecutive games and didn't lose a contest until the third game of the second set.

Cincinnati Zoo Employee Dorothy Visser carries three-quarters of the world's known supply of captive black-shouldered opossum on her shoulder. The species, unknown to science 15 years ago, comes from the province of Quispicanchis in Peru. Zoo curator Ed Maruska says one other living specimen is in the zoo at the Bronx, New York and that the skins of two such animals are on display at the Chicago Museum of National History. Maruska claims the opossums are priceless because of their extreme rarity. (AP Wirephoto)

No Agreement Possible on Latin Revolt

Foreign Relation Committee Split on Need for Intervention

WASHINGTON — Far from clarifying what really happened, the Senate Foreign Relations Committee's investigation of the Dominican crisis has underscored the committee's internal differences.

For this season, Chairman J. W. Fulbright of Arkansas opposes issuing a committee report on the investigation. Unable to agree on a unanimous report, the prestigious Foreign Relations Committee would reveal deep divisions.

On one side is the committee's conservative bloc (led by Iowa's Republican Bourke Hickenlooper and Ohio's Democratic Frank Lausche), which agrees with the Administration that intervention in the Dominican Republic was necessary to forestall a Communist takeover.

On the other side is the liberal bloc, which believes President Johnson acted on the basis of bad information and wants to say so in a formal report.

Moreover, the liberals want the closed-door hearings extended to hear witnesses not previously called. These include McGeorge Bundy, White House assistant who led a mission to Santo Domingo, and John Bartlow Martin, the President's special emissary there.

Shades of Difference

Some of the committee's liberals want to probe shades of difference between Bundy and Under Secretary of State Thomas Mann, the star witness presenting the Administration's position to the committee.

However, Fulbright wants to end the hearings right now. Instead of a report, he talks privately about committee members making their criticism known in a visit to President Johnson. Furthermore, Fulbright (himself a critic of the Johnson Dominican policy) believes that his committee's Goldwater investigation will serve as a check on the executive branch even if no report is issued.

A footnote: the committee argued behind closed doors whether to invite testimony from newspaper correspondents who covered the Dominican civil war. The idea was discarded on the grounds that the newspapermen were so badly split themselves.

The tendency of the far right to turn against the most effective anti-Communists is shown again in a current extremist campaign against Sen. Thomas J. Dodd of Connecticut.

The attack was started by Kent Courtney, the rightist pamphleteer from New Orleans. It is now being echoed by other extremist groups. Courtney refers to Dodd as "that phony anti-Communist," contending Dodd has compiled a "pro-Communist voting record" (consisting of support for foreign aid, the Federal Disarmament Agency, and the test ban treaty).

The real source for this attack is Dodd's sponsorship of a bill to regulate the sale of firearms, which has whipped the lunatic fringe into a frenzy. Says Courtney: "Sen. Dodd, by

Planning Funds Approved

Selection of Site for Fine Arts Plant Next Project for WSU-O

OSHKOSH — Selection of a site for the new Fine Arts Building of Wisconsin State University-Oshkosh is the next step in plans for the $2.9 million structure.

The State Building Commission Friday approved $110,705 for the planning of fine arts buildings at four state universities, and locations can now be chosen.

Costs of the other projects will be $1.9 million at Whitewater, $1.7 million at Stevens Point and $2.2 million at Eau Claire.

No. 1 Priority

The WSU-O Fine Arts building has the No. 1 priority on the State University Board of Reintroducing his anti-gun bill, which would restrict the purchasing of guns by Mr. Average Citizen, shows where his sympathies lie — and they are not for the preservation of our constitutional republic.

This is as zany as Robert Welch's accusations that Dwight D. Eisenhower and the Dulles brothers had Communist sympathies. Dodd not only is an old friend of Lyndon Johnson's but he can get his views into the White House.

Congressional Panic

Court-ordered reapportionment has caused many incumbent Congressmen to break into a cold sweat, but none more so than Rep. E. Y. Berry of South Dakota. Berry, a hard-shelled Republican conservative, has a new district much more liberal than his old one and could face opposition in the Republican primary.

So, Berry has broken all precedents by pushing the panic button and dispatching a personal fund appeal for the primary (though no opponent has yet announced against him).

What's more, though his new district is more liberal, he is Johnson. Furthermore, Fulbright (himself a critic of the Johnson Dominican policy) be-

Writing to financial backers of Sherwood youngsters have relieved that his committee's Goldwater. Berry's form letter describes himself as a Goldwater man and warns "It is very completing the course last November that some enemies of mine who are appeasers will try to pull and eighth graders, were taught someone in the primary against by Mrs. Robert Schneider, in order to weaken the opposition will spend even to help nominate a so-called Republican willing to compromise with the demagogues in Washington, D. C."

Cushing Proposes Poverty Commission

BOSTON (AP) — Richard Cardinal Cushing, Archbishop of Boston, has proposed the establishment by the Roman Catholic Church of a commission to fight world poverty and human suffering.

A footnote: Berry support-fine the United Republicans of America, a splinter group raising funds to oppose liberals and two-thirds of the human family ing moderates in Republican primary elections.

agents construction request for the last biennium. An architect will be selected and plans drawn for the new building, which will include the music, art and speech departments and an auditorium for plays and concerts.

The auditorium will not approach the size of the Oshkosh High School - Civic Auditorium, university officials indicated.

Dr. Robert Polk, director of long range planning at WSU-O, estimated planning the building would take at least half a year and that it could be a year at least before any construction might begin. Owners of property needed would be able to remain in their homes until construction started.

Will Contact Owners

After a site is chosen owners of needed property will be contacted. The new Fine Arts Building is the only major land acquisition facing the university at this time.

Other forthcoming construction projects under study by the regents and building commission are an additional physical education facility and a wing on Dempsey Hall for administrative purposes. These projects are slated for the coming biennium.

Dr. Polk added that various departments which will be housed in the new building have indicated their needs will include rooms for band, orchestra and choir rehearsals, piano practice rooms, special rooms for practice of other musical instruments. There also will be instruction rooms for the art and speech departments and rooms for drama department projects.

He hoped that the building could be ready for use by mid-year or at least for the fall semester of 1968.

Sherwood Youths Get First Aid Certificates

SHERWOOD — Forty-four Sherwood youngsters have received Junior Red Cross First Aid certificates for successfully completing the course last November at Sacred Heart School.

The recipients, all seventh and eighth graders, were taught by Mrs. Robert Schneider. All children taking the course passed. The certificates were issued by Mrs. William Staus, self-addressed envelope to make matters easier. He ends on a note: "Because of my courageous stand on life and death issues, you can make up your mind that there is no limit to the amount of money that the opposition will spend even to help nominate a so-called Republican willing to compromise with the demagogues in Washington, D. C."

Military Chiefs Detail Buildup for Viet Nam

By JAMES C. LAGIER
HONOLULU, Hawaii (AP) — Top U.S. military officials decided at a secret eight-hour strategy meeting here how they will carry out President Johnson's order to increase substantially America's commitment in the South Viet Nam war.

Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and U.S. military commanders in the Pacific worked out the details Monday on the 50,000-man buildup announced last Wednesday by the President.

Attending the session with Wheeler were Gen. William C. Westmoreland, head of the U.S. forces in South Viet Nam; Adm. U.S. Grant Sharp, Pacific military commander in chief, and a score of military experts from Washington, Pearl Harbor and Saigon.

Closed Door Session
It was a closed-door meeting devoted to figuring out a timetable for the increase in American troops, as well as the problems of transportation, supplies and placement.

No statement was issued at the conclusion of the meeting, and the principals talked only in generalities about their decisions.

"Obviously, I can't tell you the details of what we talked about," Wheeler said as he walked out of Pacific Military Headquarters at Camp H. M. Smith overlooking Pearl Harbor.

"However, I can say we accomplished what I came here for."

Then the nation's top military official spelled out the goal of the sessions:

"I came out to talk to Admiral Sharp on how we can implement the President's program."

Johnson announced a planned increase in U.S. personnel in Viet Nam from 75,000 to 125,000.

Wheeler declined to speculate on any future manpower increase.

Maxwell D. Taylor, retiring as U.S. ambassador to South Viet Nam, dropped in on the talks for an hour.

He was in Honolulu over the weekend en route to Washington to report to President Johnson before turning the ambassadorship over to Henry Cabot Lodge.

Taylor did not take a formal part in the talks but said, "I'm just stopping off to see my good friends, General Westmoreland and Admiral Sharp."

He was asked about a report that the Soviet Union will not sign a treaty to halt the spread of nuclear weapons.

He repeated the Soviet position that the withdrawal of foreign troops and foreign bases has priority over a treaty to halt the spread of nuclear weapons.

He also stressed that the Soviet Union will not agree to an extension of the Moscow test ban treaty to include underground tests so long as the West demands on-site inspections.

$25 Million Prize at Stake

3 Men to Scrape Bottom of Delaware Bay For Legendary Spanish Treasure Galleon

LEWES, Del. (AP) — Three men are preparing to probe the murky depths of Delaware Bay for Spanish gold and silver.

They hope to find captured booty valued at more than $8 million that was aboard the British sloop of war De Braak when it sank in a gale off Lewes in May 1798.

The searchers, Louis De Cerchio, Marios S. Busa, and Dr. William T. De Feo, a dentist, all of Philadelphia, estimate they have spent $80,000 locating the sunken ship and preparing for the recovery operation. The State of Delaware granted their company a three-year exclusive salvage permit and Monday the U.S. Navy also approved the operation.

According to records, the De Braak was carrying 800 pounds of gold, silver valued at $25 million and 70 tons of copper seized from two Spanish galleons. When she sank, legend says, 34 crewmen and more than 100 Spanish prisoners drowned.

Through the years numerous expeditions to recover the treasure have failed.

But, De Cerchio said: "This is no search for sunken treasure. We have had men on the De Braak six times where portions of her are not buried in the silt. We know where she lies, we don't have to hunt for her."

"When William Smith of Philadelphia, our head diver, goes down, he knows exactly where to look. And so do the other two divers."

He added that "all things being equal we hope to bring up the De Braak by the middle of October."

There's still one bit of mystery about the sunken vessel. According to legend and some records, the ship's skipper, Capt. James Drew, was headed for shore in a boat when the gale struck.

He supposedly turned back and was aboard the ship when it capsized.

4 Super-Gang Members Still Being Sought

Pre-Dawn Raids Net 10 Suspects Of World Crime

PALERMO, Sicily (AP) — International police were asked today to help track down four suspected members of a super-gang linking the Sicilian Mafia with the American Cosa Nostra.

Police moved against the international mob Monday, rounding up 10 suspects in a series of

Genco Russo

predawn raids from Bologna in northern Italy to Taormina in eastern Sicily.

Two of those still at large were believed living in New York City and a third somewhere in California.

Italian authorities said they were Joseph Cerreto, 54, a U.S. citizen residing in California and a friend of the late Charles (Lucky) Luciano; Santo Sorge, 57, a U.S. citizen living in New York, accused in the past of fraud and espionage; and Gaetano Russo, 73, U.S. citizen of New York, also described as a friend of Luciano.

Monday Raids
In Monday's raids police teams picked up Giuseppe (Genco) Russo, 72, reputed head of the Mafia, and Frank (Three Fingers) Coppola, 75, a Sicilian once said to be Luciano's heir. Coppola was deported from the United States in 1948.

The 14 men were charged with associating to commit crime and a variety of individual allegations including drug smuggling and bombings.

American and European police had long suspected a link between the ancient Mafia and the Cosa Nostra, but it was the first time authorities claimed enough evidence to obtain arrest warrants.

Appalachian Meeting
Palermo Police Chief Francesco Interrisi said some of the 14 played a role in the 1957 underworld convention at Appalachian, N.Y., although none of their names had appeared on New York state police lists of those attending the convention.

Interrisi said several "preconventions" were held in Palermo before the Appalachian gathering.

Police said their investigation showed the Mafia and Cosa Nostra exchanged plans, men and equipment with the Mafia adopting some of the modern American rackets.

Authorities said the super-gang was active in the United States, Europe and Africa.

Licenses to Carry Guns Increased

AMERICUS, Ga. (AP) — The first arrests of pickets and a statement that an increasing number of white residents are buying pistol permits heightened racial tensions today.

Negro leaders, ignoring appeals from Gov. Carl E. Sanders for local handling of disputes, said pickets would return to a grocery store where 23 were arrested Monday.

They called, too, for another early evening march to the courthouse.

The Sumter County Grand Jury, convened in special session Monday, is considering charges against Eddie Will Lamar and Charles Lee Hopkins, both 21. The two Negroes are charged with slaying Andrew A. Whitley, 21, a white Marine enlistee shot Wednesday night about three blocks from a civil rights demonstration.

A county official, Eugene Horne, announced Monday that white residents were buying permits to carry pistols at a fast clip. A $2 fee is all that is required for the permits — and all sold so far have gone only to whites, Horne said.

"The people here are excited about their own safety. People here are going to defend themselves and their rights," he said.

Horne added that he thought the pistols would only be used defensively and not "without provocation."

Special Session
Police arrested the 23 pickets when grocery store manager Carl Fox said they were parading on a private sidewalk. They were charged with trespassing.

Newsmen saw a white man knock a white demonstrator to the ground and another white man slap a Negro picket. There were no arrests.

Scientists Maintain Link With Mariner 4; Recorder Turned Off

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Scientists have turned off Mariner 4's tape recorder and turned on other scientific and engineering equipment that had been shut down during the spacecraft's rerun of the historic Mars photos.

Spokesmen at Jet Propulsion Laboratory said the playback of 21 pictures was completed shortly before 9 p.m. Monday when Mariner was 150 million miles from earth.

Scientists say they expect to maintain communications with the craft for another six to eight weeks. They say an attempt to regain contact will be made in September 1967 when the craft's orbit around the sun will carry it within 25 million miles of earth.

Two double fatalities resulting from accidents in Jefferson and Outagamie County raised the 1965 death toll on Wisconsin highways to 529 today. On this date in 1964 the total was 612.

Marshal F. Zuleger, 30, route 1, Black Creek, and Frank Rudzinski, 72, 325 Ivory St., Seymour, died Monday night as a result of a two-car headon collision on State 47 three miles north of Black Creek. Two others in the crash are seriously injured and are in Appleton Memorial Hospital.

The accident which occurred about 9:30 p.m., was the county's third double highway fatality of the year and brought the year's county death count to 15.

Zuleger, driver of one car heading north of 47 was killed almost instantly at the accident scene on a straight stretch of road.

Rudzinski died about midnight at Appleton Memorial Hospital, two hours after the crash. He was heading south on 47 when the accident occurred.

Hospitalized With Injuries
Rudzinski's wife, about 70, and a son, Frank Jr., 46, are hospitalized with injuries at Memorial Hospital. Mrs. Rudzinski is in critical condition and her son is listed as serious.

County authorities said today they have no information on the cause of the headon collision which occurred as both cars apparently were being driven close to the highway centerline in their own lanes of traffic.

Outagamie County Coroner Bernard H. Kemps and Sheriff Calvin Spice, both called to investigate the double death, said evidence at the scene was inconclusive and there were no witnesses to the crash.

Have Not Been Questioned
Survivors have not been questioned due to their injuries and it is doubtful that they will be questioned today, Kemps said. He said he planned no inquest.

Kemps said investigation at the scene disclosed that Zuleger, who lived alone, has been under treatment for a heart condition since last year when he suffered a heart seizure. Kemps has ordered an autopsy on Zuleger to determine if the victim had suffered another heart seizure before the accident.

A man and a woman were killed this morning when two cars collided on Interstate 94 near the Dane-Jefferson county line. The dead were James Alsage, 42, a Watertown High School teacher, and a woman riding in the other car. Her identity was not disclosed pending notification of next of kin.

Injured and in critical condition following the mishap which occurred at 6:53 a.m. was Nick Moncel, 19, of route 4, Hayward.

Committee Okays Bill on Immigration
WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Judiciary Committee today approved a bill calling for major reforms in immigration policy, including elimination of the controversial national origins quota system.

The 26 to 4 bipartisan vote for the administration-backed measure indicated it would have strong support when it comes to the House floor. A companion bill is before a Senate subcommittee.

Besides scrapping the 40-year-old system of assigning quotas to individual nations, the bill would set up a new order of preferences for immigrants, chiefly benefiting close relatives of U.S. citizens.

Major Change
Its major change in present policy, however, would be in its abolition of the quota system, devised to mirror the U.S. population makeup in 1920. Under it, Northern and Western European nations get most of the available U.S. entry permits, but use only a fraction of them.

The bill would do away with the quota system on July 1, 1968, and until then the quotas unused by any nation would be pooled to reduce the backlog of applicants from low-quota countries.

Starting July 1, 1968, a ceiling of 170,000 would be placed on immigration from the present quota countries, under which each country would be treated equally. A maximum limit of 20,000 would be placed on admissions from any one nation.

Western Hemisphere nations, which are now allowed unrestricted immigration outside the quota, would not be affected by the proposed new law.

Also outside the ceiling would be the parents, spouses and children of U.S. citizens.

Annual Immigration
The effect of the bill would be to authorize total annual immigration of about 340,000—170,000 under the ceiling, 120,000 from the Western Hemisphere and 50,000 parents, spouses and children.

The only real opposition to the bill as it went through both the judiciary subcommittee and the full committee was to the provision for unrestricted immigration from the Western Hemisphere.

Rep. Clark MacGregor, R-Minn., offered amendments in both groups to bring the hemisphere

Ford Rebuffs Johnson On 'Broken Confidence'

WASHINGTON (A) — Rep. Gerald R. Ford of Michigan said today he has a suspicion that information on a Viet Nam conference between President Johnson and congressional leaders last week "was leaked from the White House."

The House Republican leader, regarded as the apparent target of Johnson's blast at "a prominent member of another party" over the reports, did not elaborate.

But in a television interview on "Today" he did deny anew that he was the source of the controversial accounts.

At issue, in particular, was a published report that a memorandum read at the White House session by Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana influenced Johnson's choice not to call up National Guard and Reserve units. Johnson said that was untrue, and took the view that the leak was in "perhaps malicious" form.

Ford said most of the significant information on the meeting had leaked out from other sources by the next morning, and much of it was given at a Pentagon press briefing the following day.

Johnson Sensitive
"I broke no confidence," Ford asserted.

He added that he has a suspicion that Johnson "is very sensitive" because some prominent Senate Democrats have been critical of his policies in Viet Nam.

The House GOP chief said he did not refer to the Mansfield statement or Reserve plans in an informal background briefing with newsmen after the White House meeting.

He said he thought it would be best to drop the whole thing.

That part of his comment today was about the same thing he had said Monday.

Federal Bonds Are Posted for Demonstrators
ALLENTOWN, S.C. (AP) — A federal government representative posted bond today for 37 civil rights demonstrators who were arrested in the Allentown County Courthouse while protesting voter registration practices.

The Rev. C. A. Webster Jr., a Baptist minister who works with the federal community relations program, initiated blanket bonds of $200 each for 36 demonstrators and bonds totaling $700 for one white youth arrested Monday after a scuffle with state troopers.

Webster told newsmen this was a relatively new procedure for the federal government. Nineteen of the white and Negro demonstrators took advantage of the bond and left jail early this morning. Four Negro girls under 17 had been released earlier to their parents. Fourteen demonstrators declined to take advantage of the bond offer and remained in jail.

Boy's Story of Woman's Death Is Substantiated

FOND DU LAC (AP) — A 14-year old boy's story of a young mother's fatal plunge from a park observation tower was substantiated in a lie detector test, Sheriff Ray Howard said today.

Mrs. Suzanne Velasco, 20, was found dead Sunday at the base of an 87-foot high tower in Columbia Park. The boy told police he and Mrs. Velasco had climbed the tower while attending a picnic and that she suddenly climbed over the railing and either jumped or fell to her death.

The boy said he went to the body and tried to pull Mrs. Velasco to a car but abandoned the effort after dragging her 16 feet.

Howard took the boy to Madison for the lie test Monday.

DA NANG, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. Marines burned out about 100 Vietnamese homes today after they received intelligence sniper fire from a village area three miles south of Da Nang.

Marines told a newsmen they were ordered to set fire to homes in the area if they got so much as one round of sniper fire. The area has been a menace to the Marines since they came to Da Nang.

Will Not Sign Treaty
RUSSIA BALK AT IDEA OF NATO Nuclear Arm

GENEVA (AP) — The Soviet Union said today it will never sign a treaty to halt the spread of nuclear weapons so long as the West continues to bow to what it called "West German blackmail" and goes ahead with the proposed multinational nuclear force.

Chief Soviet delegate Semyon K. Tsarapkin told the 17-nation disarmament conference that the nuclear force proposed for the North Atlantic Treaty Organization is "absolutely unacceptable" to the Soviet Union.

Strong Attack
In a strong attack on the United States, he said American "imperialism and aggression" in Viet Nam is a major obstacle to further disarmament agreements.

Tsarapkin's attack caused no surprise although one Western delegate said it was "rather tougher than we expected."

The Soviet delegate had repeatedly told newsmen during the past week that the Russians would not sign any nonproliferation treaty so long as the West went ahead with its joint nuclear force.

Despite the aggressive tone of his speech, Tsarapkin stressed the need to continue efforts to seek agreement on disarmament.

"The Soviet Union will not reduce its efforts in the search for disarmament and the relaxation of international tension," he said.

He repeated the Soviet position that the withdrawal of foreign troops and foreign bases has priority over a treaty to halt the spread of nuclear weapons.

He also stressed that the Soviet Union will not agree to an extension of the Moscow test ban treaty to include underground tests so long as the West demands on-site inspections.

Brush Fires Flare Anew on Riviera
LAVANDOU, France (AP) — The smoldering fringes of several Riviera brush fire zones flared up before driving winds today and burned two fire engines. Two firemen were reported missing.

Two persons already had been killed and thousands of tourists routed in several days of fires that have raged over about 25,000 acres of parched brush and low pine forests in the French vacationland. Twelve persons were reported injured.

One new fire broke out off the village of La Coteau. Officials said sparks were blown from the city dump into a thicket of dry scrub pines.

Calumet Board May Wrap Up Redistricting

Plan to Cut Number Of Supervisors From 24 to 16 on Agenda

CHILTON — Final action on county board reapportionment may be taken at the Aug. 10 session of the Calumet County Board of Supervisors.

The plan to reduce the number of supervisors from 24 to 16 was aired at a public hearing July 15.

Supported by the supervisors at the June session, the plan was formulated by a five-man committee of Louis Huibregse, Brillion, county board chairman; Gilbert J. Hipke, New Holstein, committee chairman; Oscar Kossman, Town of Chilton, George Schwaibach, Town of Harrison, and Assemblyman Wilmer Struebing, former Town of Brillion supervisor. County Clerk Roland E. Miller, and F. J. Schneider, district attorney, worked with the committee.

Plan Praised
Several persons at the public hearing praised the committee's efforts on the redistricting problem.

However, spokesmen for Hilbert entered a plea to retain their one supervisor. Under the plan Hilbert and the Town of Woodville would be combined into one supervisory district.

Under the proposed plan each supervisor would represent about 1,400 persons to uphold the one man-one-vote reapportionment requirement.

Court May Step In
Schmieder said it is important to submit an acceptable plan because the State Supreme Court reserves the right to intervene if a county is unable to reapportion itself satisfactorily.

Major changes under the proposed plan include the addition of a second supervisor for the Town of Harrison, which has 2,873 residents.

Chilton's and New Holstein's representation would be cut from four supervisors to two, and Brillion's would be cut from three to one.

Districts combined with one supervisor each would be Town of Woodville-Village of Hilbert, Town and Village of Stockbridge, and Town of New Holstein and Keil's Calumet County precinct.

Deadline Nov. 1
Unchanged districts would be Towns of Brillion, Brothertown, Charlestown, Chilton, Rantoul and Appleton's 9th Ward.

The board is expected to take action at either this or the September session. The deadline for reapportionment is Nov. 1.

Calumet County is entitled to 21 supervisors by law, but the committee felt reduction to 16 will allow room for expansion after the 1970 census.

Other business will include action on a resolution allowing the transfer of $35,000 from the general fund surplus to the jail annex account to cover the cost of construction of the office annex to the Calumet County jail.

St. Cloud Contractors
The 32-by-40-foot addition is under contract to the Feldner Construction Co. of St. Cloud, and will house a sheriff's office and conference room, a county traffic patrol office, radio room and public rest rooms.

Supv. Herman Greve, chairman of the sheriff's committee, estimated that the total cost of the concrete annex, including the interior, at nearly $40,000.

Also to be discussed is a transfer of $1,800 from the contingent fund to the plat book account. The sale of plat books eventually covers this cost.

Petitions for county aid for bridges will be considered at this session so that the amounts may be considered in the temporary budget.

Oshkosh Man Faces Trial on Charge of Impersonating Officer

An Oshkosh man who allegedly used a correspondence course detective badge in an attempt to make an arrest at a Hortonville tavern, pleaded innocent of impersonating a policeman.

Robert M. Gray, 31, 1917 Michigan St., an unemployed laborer, faces trial on the charge Sept. 30. He is being held in the Outagamie County jail on $150 bond.

Hortonville Police Chief Douglas Jones said the man was arrested Sunday afternoon when he allegedly flashed a pocket badge and official-looking cards at two men in the tavern, and ordered their arrest.

Outagamie Committee Airls Reapportionment Problems

Executive Group Drafts Plan for 47-Supervisor County Board

Problems in setting up new county board supervisory districts were discussed Monday by the Outagamie County Board's executive committee.

Acting under the instructions of the county board which last month ordered the junking of a 43-member board reapportionment plan and the formation of 47 districts, the executive committee today gave approval to a reapportionment plan drawn up by County Executive Secretary Alvin Woehler.

The 47-man board plan, which will be presented to the county board next week for approval, sets up 21 supervisory districts in Appleton, five in Kaukauna, two in the Town of Grand Chute, two in a combined Town of Buchanan-Combined Locks district, three in Kimberly, two in Little Chute, and one each in towns of Kaukauna - Vandenberg, Freedom, Towns of Ellington-Center, Towns of Greenville-Dale, Village of Hortonville-Town of Horton, New London's Third Ward Town of Liberty, Town of Oneida, Town and Village of Black Creek-Town of Osborn, City of Seymour, Towns of Seymour-Cicero, Towns of Maine - Bovina and Village of Shiocton, and Towns of Deer Creek - Maple Creek and Village of Bear Creek.

Difference of 1,386
Under the new plan, as approved today by the executive committee, there is a difference of 1,386 persons between the districts with the most and least representation.

Based upon the county's 1960 federal census, the perfect population-to-supervisor ratio would be 2,270 to 1. By dividing Appleton's Outagamie County population by 21 supervisors, the ratio would be 2,226 to 1.

There would be a difference between the lowest (1,882) and the highest (2,907).

The same problem arises outside Appleton as the Village of Combined Locks would be represented on a 1,521 to 1 ratio and the Greenville-Dale would be represented on 2,763 to 1 ratio.

New Election District
In Appleton, new supervisor election districts would be formed by making three units out of the First and Second Wards, realigning the Eighth, Ninth and Tenth wards into Supervisory Districts 9, 10 and 11 and realigning the 19th and 20th wards into Supervisor District 20 and 21.

Other major problem areas faced by the executive committee this morning when discussing the reapportionment plan were the Town of Grand Chute, the City of Kaukauna and the villages of Kimberly and Little Chute.

Kaukauna, which recently set up new ward lines based on a study made by the Fox Valley Regional Planning Commission, No. 25-26; Christmas vacation, Dec. 23 - Jan. 3 and Easter vacation, April 8-11. The first semester ends Jan. 14.

School will close May 28 with a date of May 31 in case of bad winter weather.

1,000 Persons Attend Fly-In at New London

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

NEW LONDON — A record crowd of about 1,000 persons attended the sixth annual fly-in sponsored by New London Aviation Inc. Sunday at the airport about four miles east of here on State 54.

The Para-Naut Skydiving team, Appleton, thrilled the crowd with their performances throughout the day. Terry Warrick and George Waring had scheduled the first jump for 10:30 a.m., but were unable to leave the ground until 11:30 because of a dense cloud cover that remained most of the day.

A ceiling of 2,200 feet is needed before the divers can leave the ground. The first jump was a basic parachute exhibition. Later jumps demonstrated various acrobatics in the air. Heights of 7,000 feet were reached as divers used smoke bombs to allow spectators to follow them in the air. Warrick had 196 jumps going into Sunday and Waring, 142.

Homemade Craft
Early morning attendants of the fly-in were treated to an exhibition of homemade racers at 7:30 p.m. Aug. 14 in Fischer's aircraft. Two Baraboo pilots flew in about 9:30 a.m. in planes they built. They had 85 committee are Mrs. Ed Mitch-ell, chairman; Mrs. Lee Wait, Mrs. Walter Pasch, Mrs. Carsten Sievers and Elwyn Etheridge.

The planes, with a short wing span and small body, buzzed the airport and put on an exhibition of the maneuverability.

Action at the airport got underway slowly about 7 a.m. following a rain through most of the night. A pancake breakfast was served throughout the day and refreshments were available.

Funds raised by the Aviation Club are used for maintenance and improvement of the local facilities which include two 2,000-foot sod runways.

Avenue (County Trunk OO) as the dividing line.

No straight north-south or east-west lines are followed along Kimberly streets because an equitable arrangement must follow the State Supreme Court's one-man, one-vote dictum.

As a result, County Board and Executive Committee Chairman Alvin Fulcer told the committee today, Kimberly will have to supply election clerks next April with three separate lists showing which districts people live in.

Colored Ballots
Fulcer, who also is Kimberly village president, said a different colored ballot would have to be given to the voter, depending on which district he lives in. Fulcer said the supervisor election can't be put on voting machines because there would be no way of controlling which supervisory election a voter would cast his vote in.

Little Chute would be divided into two districts by Wilson Street.

The only alternative to this morning's plan, Woehler said, would be to take apart all town line and city ward boundaries and to set up all new districts with as close to 2,170 residents as possible.

Clintonville Club Slates Childrens Golf Tournament

CLINTONVILLE — A children's day golf tournament will be held the next two Fridays at Riverside Golf Course.

Boys and girls in the advanced group will play nine-hole matches, while intermediates and beginners will compete in medal play tournaments.

A tournament will be held for the 12 junior boys, those of senior high school age who are not in the children's group.

Entrants must play qualifying rounds by Friday, according to Earl Paape, instructor, so matches can be scheduled. Trophies will be awarded.

Trophies also will be awarded in the advanced group and medals in the other groups.

Only the advanced group received golf lessons Friday as intermediate and beginner classes were rained out. Allen Mahnke and Peggy Torborg won the contest for the advanced group for those closest to the pin.

Damages Top $200 in Crash Near Waupaca

WAUPACA — Damages of more than $200 were caused at about 2:15 p.m. Sunday when cars driven by Robert J. Groszek, 32, St. Francis, and William R. Flaska, 21, Cicero, Ill., collided in the intersection of U.S. 10 and County Trunk Q, five miles northwest of here.

According to police, both cars were traveling south when the Groszek car attempted to pass the Flaska car on the right side as it was making a right turn onto County Trunk Q. There were no injuries.

Waupaca to Bid for Delinquents' School

Development Group Heads Drive to Get New State Training Facility for Boys

WAUPACA — Waupaca will make a bid for the new training school for delinquent boys which will be built in northern Wisconsin.

However, competition from other counties and cities will be keen and Waupaca must find suitable sites as soon as possible and prepare a selling plan which can be presented to the state. Waupaca's Assemblyman Gerald K. Anderson said at a meeting Monday of the Waupaca Industrial Development Corporation, (WIDC). The group is sponsoring the drive to bring the school to the Waupaca area.

The meeting was attended by Clifford Johnson, president of the Association of Commerce and G. H. Stordock, secretary-treasurer of the A of C. Johnson and Stordock agreed to present the project at a board of directors meeting Wednesday in an effort to enlist the support of the entire community to have the school built in the Waupaca area.

Criteria Reviewed
Criteria for site selections prepared by the State Welfare Department was reviewed at the meeting and members of the WIDC will now be seeking possible sites which can be offered.

The school, which will be built

Man Charged With Battery At Waupaca

WAUPACA — Vincent J. Wojtech, 19, Milwaukee, charged with aggravated battery after a fight at the Casino Saturday, was bound over to County Court for trial Monday, when he appeared in Municipal Justice Court.

David Freuburger, 22, route 3, New London, was struck on the left side of the head with a beer bottle during the alleged scuffle and was hospitalized. Five stitches were required to close the head wound. Freuburger was still hospitalized Monday for observation.

After the incident, Wojtech was taken to the Waupaca County jail where he was held until his court appearance Monday. He has been released on a $5,000 property bond.

Awards Given in 31 Classes

133 Riders Participate in Annual Brillion Silver Spur Horse Show

BRILLION — A total of 133 horseback riding enthusiasts participated in the Brillion Silver Spur Saddle Club's third annual horse show Sunday at Lazy Acres Riding Stable 2½ miles east of here.

Riders representing 14 clubs vied for honors in 31 classes. Participating clubs were Rough Riders, Wayside; Black River Riders, Sheboygan; Rim Rock Riders, Valders; Calumet County Riding Club, Chilton; Westwood Ranch Riders and Bit & Spur Clubs, Manitowoc; Broken Wheel, Appleton; Trail Blazers and Rawhide Riders Clubs, De Pere; Branch River Club, Branch; Southern Wisconsin Appaloosa Horse Club; Plymouth Trail Riders, Plymouth; Twin River Riders, Two Rivers and the Brillion Silver Spur Saddle Club.

Competition began at 8:30 a.m. in the halter classes which included stock horse type, American quarterhorse, registered, Appaloosa, saddle bred and Arabians.

Trophies Awarded

north of a line from LaCrosse to Manitowoc, reportedly will cost $5 million and provide facilities for up to 300 boys. A site of at least 300 acres is needed for the school which will be similar to those at Wales and Plymouth in southern Wisconsin.

Anderson told the group they definitely should make a bid for the school but cannot go to the state with just wishful thinking. Specific sites must be found, specifications drafted for each side selected and then presented

Jail Escapees Won't Tell How It's Done

CHILTON — Two Calumet County jail prisoners whose attempt to gain freedom last week ended in a wild police chase in which one escapee was wounded, are not telling authorities how they walked away from the county jail here.

Undersheriff Lucille Kosmosky said both James Clark, 23, of Appleton, and Michael Towne, 20, of South Bend, Ind., have refused to tell sheriff authorities how they walked through three doors early last Wednesday night and escaped from custody.

Meanwhile, Clark, being held in the county jail Monday pleaded innocent to a charge of jail escape and asked for a preliminary hearing on a second charge of car theft. The matter was continued until Aug. 30.

Towne in Hospital
Towne, still confined for treatment of gunshot wounds at St. Elizabeth Hospital in Appleton, has not been charged in the escape try, Calumet County District Atty. F. J. Schmieder said today, and charges will not be filed until Towne is released from the hospital.

He is under guard at the hospital and is not allowed to receive telephone calls or visitors. His condition is fair, hospital authorities said.

Mrs. Kosmosky said jailers have been questioned about the escape and said that at least one of the heavy doors leading to the lockup section was securely locked, and that the other heavy door "may have been unlocked." She said the third door, a wooden one leading to the sheriff's office, has no key and is never locked.

No Investigation Set
Herman Greve, chairman of the Calumet County board's sheriff and traffic committee, said today that there has been no action regarding an official investigation into the escape.

He said he has "talked to the fellows" at the sheriff's department and said there was no mention of "conflicting stories" or rumors pertaining to unlocked doors at the jail.

He said the committee plans a meeting Tuesday but "it is doubtful if anything will come up (about the jail break) during the meeting."

Both Clark and Towne are alleged to have made good their walk-away from the jail, then used a stolen car to drive to Appleton, being pursued by Calumet County authorities.

The car was stopped inside the Appleton city limits when Chilton Police Chief Daniel Albedyll blasted a window in the escapee's car and wounded Towne, the driver, in the shoulder.

Dogs Possibility

Committee Asked To Add 5 Police to Outagamie Force

Requests for the addition of five new Outagamie County policemen and possibly for trained police dogs were taken to the county board's executive committee Monday afternoon by Supv. John Schreiter (Appleton 6), chairman of county board's courts and law enforcement committee.

Schreiter, who was trying to win executive committee support for his committee's plan which will be presented to the county board next Tuesday, said the added policemen would enable the county to have round-the-clock law enforcement.

Coupled with the proposal, Schreiter asked for permission to take bids on automobiles as a preliminary step in his committee's drive to establish a policy of county-owned squad cars.

Nine Patrolmen Employed
Presently, the county traffic police department has a captain, two sergeants and nine patrolmen who work between 7 a.m. and 2 a.m. However, the captain (Ronald Decker), underwent surgery recently and has not worked since early in June. By adding five new patrolmen to bring the total to 16, Schreiter said four shifts of four patrolmen each would be available.

He explained to the executive committee that the county is divided into four patrol zones. With four traffic patrolmen on

Air Freight At Clintonville Shows Increase

North Central Flights Carry More Pounds Despite Fewer Trips

CLINTONVILLE — Air freight boarded last month on North Central Airline flights out of Clintonville Municipal Airport showed a substantial gain over a year ago despite 28 fewer departures. There were 91 departures last month and 119 a year ago.

There were 6,270 pounds of air freight boarded last month compared to 4,200 pounds a year ago for an increase of 2,070 pounds.

There was a decrease of 184 pounds deplaned with 1,961 pounds last month compared to 2,145 pounds a year ago.

Air express was up 65 pounds with 7,416 pounds boarded last month compared to 7,351 a year ago, while incoming air express was down 62 pounds with 2,313 pounds last month and 2,375 pounds a year ago.

Air mail boarded was 868 pounds, up 194 pounds from the 1967 total. There were 674 pounds a year ago, and Silver Spur: Sue Fonder, Pat Deplaned, 86 pounds, a drop of 265 pounds from the 351 pounds a year ago.

Passenger boardings were 129 in July, 29 fewer than the 158 in July, 1964. A total of 138 deplaned, seven fewer than the 145 a year ago.

Review Board Begins Session

NEW LONDON — Board of review met Monday to start what is expected to be about a week-long session to review the 1965 assessment roll.

The board will compare the 1965 tax roll prepared by assessor George Groher with the 1964 roll. The board looks for errors and hears complaints from persons who believe their property has been assessed at too high a figure.

Members of the board are Mrs. Grace Stern, Avalt Tohm and M. J. Stewart.

Clintonville Rotary Hears Foreign Problems

CLINTONVILLE — Howard Bovee, Williamsburg, Va., a Department of State, foreign service employee, spoke Monday at the Rotary Club luncheon meeting in the Hotel Marston. Program chairman was Dr. Harold Laatsch.

Bovee discussed problems of the State Department and Viet Nam, Pakistan and Morocco. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard N. Bovee, 67 Wilson St., Clintonville.

Airlift Airport Called Menace by East Berlin

By KLAUS SCHULZ-VOBACH BERLIN (AP) — The East German regime claims that of the houses crowding around Tempelhof Airport in the heart of West Berlin is a menace to persons living around the field, a key terminal in the 1948-49 airlift.

The Communists contend that the main runway is only about 5,300 feet long and that, because of the landing angle is unfavorable.

Thousands of East German refugees have been flown to the West from the airport.

The continuous drone of commercial planes that has made Tempelhof the third biggest passenger terminal in Europe is a reassuring sound to the West Berliners.

"Every flight reminds us that there is still a way in and a way out," one nearby resident remarked.

The Berliners have memories of the long months of the Soviet ground blockade when thousands of Allied flights brought in food for West Berlin's 2.2 million persons. They do not need the monument that stands in the city to remind them of the 74 Allied airmen who were killed in the airlift.

Tempelhof occupies the site of Kaiser Wilhelm II's favorite parade ground. It became central Europe's major air terminal in 1927.

The Nazis used it for military planes only toward the end of World War II. A section of the field now is reserved for the U.S. Air Force and there are about 500 military flights a month.

By agreement of the Big Four World War II Allies, air traffic over Berlin is restricted to U.S., British, French and Soviet planes. The three Western Allies each have one commercial airline serving the city along three corridors linking West Berlin with the Federal Republic of Germany.

The East Germans claim the space over the city is theirs. Recently helicopters with East German markings flew along the city's east-west dividing line, crossing it in some cases.

Waupaca Bids For Training School for Boys

to the state. "You have to go in hard headed, have good facts about your sites and be ready to compete with people who are already standing in line," Anderson said.

Political Wrangling

Already there has been some political wrangling on where the school will be located, he said. At least seven different areas have been mentioned with Merrill and Eau Claire being two of the areas that will be going all out for what can be called an "economic plum." Anderson told the group. Legislators of the north area joined forces to obtain passage of the bill that would put the school in northern Wisconsin but now each is promoting his individual locality, he added.

Members of the group expressed their thinking that the Waupaca area would be an ideal location for the school. Not only can a suitable site be found but when completed, staff members and employees would be close to trade areas as well as social and cultural centers, such as the Fox River Valley, Green Bay and Stevens Point. Adequate housing would also be available in the Waupaca area.

It was pointed out that Waupaca may not be in the center of the northern geographically but it is in the center of the population area.

Not Poverty Area

One of the drawbacks that Waupaca will have to overcome in presenting its proposals is that the county is not a poverty county, which is the case of some of the other counties making a bid for the school. It was evident to those attending the Monday meeting that such a school would be a great economic asset to the county selected.

It has already been rumored in Madison that at least one northern county is prepared to donate a tract of land for the school, Anderson said. But this is no reason to give up the fight to have the Waupaca area selected, because it may be possible that Waupaca can propose a more suitable site despite the fact the land would have to be purchased, Anderson told the group.

According to the criteria for the site, which had been obtained by Stordock, the school must not only be located north of the aforementioned line, it must be in relative proximity to a community which can provide necessary living, recreational, social, and medical facilities for the staff; distances for parents, desiring to visit the children should be reasonable; public transportation should be available; the site should be sufficiently remote from highways and population masses in order to assure privacy; sufficient land should be available to provide ample outdoor recreation opportunities, and should be in an area which has public acceptance and understanding.

Employee Turnover

Criteria also states that the school should be in an area not highly industrialized since experience has shown that considerable employee turnover results when there is industrial competition for manpower as in the more densely populated areas.

The physical requirements for the site are that it must be located in an area which provides suitable soil for construction, landscaping, good drainage and disposal of sewage effluent; the terrain should not have underground rock strata close to the surface to hamper construction; have a dependable source of electrical power and natural gas; swampy conditions should be avoided; located near or on an isolated lake which could provide swimming, fishing and other water and winter sports for the boys; be in proximity to a forest or park area; and be located in or near natural resources pleasing to the eye.

Julius Johnson, president of the WICD, said he already has one site in mind which he will investigate further. He urged all members to seek out more sites which could possibly be used.

Another meeting has been set for next Monday, when possible sites will be discussed and work started on preparing the proposals which will be presented to the state.

Neenah Man Slashes Wrist, Is Fined $50

WAUPACA — Stanford B. Popovich, 21, 154½ Tyler St., Neenah, was fined $50 and costs after pleading guilty to a charge of disorderly conduct Monday when he appeared in Municipal Justice Court.

Popovich was arrested Sunday after Undersheriff William Mork was called to an Ogdensburg home at 2:45 a.m. in answer to a complaint that someone had slashed his wrist with a razor. When Mork arrived at the scene, Popovich, the person who had slashed his wrist, had left the home. A 2½ hour search was unsuccessful. Popovich, who slept overnight in a woods was found Sunday by a county traffic policeman.

When found, Popovich had bandaged his wrist. Fifteen stitches were required to close the wound.

Outagamie to Invite Knowles, No Criminal Byrnes to Airport Dedication Action Due in Dietrich Case

Plans are being made to officially dedicate the new Outagamie County Airport in the town of Greenville Sunday, Aug. 22, and to invite Gov. Warren Knowles and Eighth District Rep. John Byrnes to speak at the dedication program.

Members of the Outagamie County Board's airport committee met Monday morning in the courthouse with Delmar Drumm, executive secretary of the Appleton Area Chamber of Commerce, to discuss tentative plans for the dedication program.

Display of Planes

In addition, airport manager Max Sagunsky will invite aircraft manufacturers to display new airplanes and equipment at the program. Air Wisconsin, the new Appleton-based commuter airline which will be operating between the Outagamie airport and Chicago's O'Hare Field, will display its airplanes.

North Central Airlines, who some sources claim are considering inaugurating Convair commercial service to the Fox Cities, is expected to have one of its Convair 440s present at the dedication.

"Scenic rides" will be available to the general public, the committee decided, at a penny a pound rate.

Dietrich, coach at Lincoln High for two years, resigned July 13, saying he had been harassed by anonymous telephone calls and letters.

County Board Chairman Alvin Fulcer of Kimberly, who is head of the executive committee, told Schreiter that the executive committee should not make the recommendation to the full board and advised Schreiter the matter should be taken to the board by the law enforcement committee.

Two members of the executive committee (Joseph Weyers of Freedom and Marvin Babbitt of Seymour) said they were opposed to Schreiter's proposal. However, the executive committee authorized Schreiter and the other members of the law enforcement committee to visit Manitowoc and Winnebago counties where 24-hour county police departments are operating with county-owned squad cars. The committee will make the trips at county expense.

White Sox Win Two at Waupaca

The New Vocational School System

A revolutionary reorganization of the vocational school system of Wisconsin was achieved in legislation which was approved in the closing days of the current session. The new set-up had the approval of the Coordinating Committee for Higher Education, the state Vocational School Board and Governor Knowles.

Under terms of the new law, all areas of the state must be included in vocational school districts by July 1, 1970. In this respect it is similar in nature to the reorganization achieved in high school education in recent years. Until the present only the larger municipalities of the state were served by vocational schools at great disadvantage to students in less populated areas.

The new vocational school districts will be created by combinations of counties, municipalities or districts operating high schools and the districts will be operated by independent boards of seven members appointed by the executive officers of the units of government making up the district, acting jointly.

These boards will have authority to levy taxes on all the property in the district up to a maximum of two mills and these revenues may be used for capital expenditures as well as operating budgets. The districts may also borrow for the acquisition of sites, buildings and equipment.

The law states that "it is the intent of this section that every person 16 years of age or over who can profit thereby shall be eligible to attend such tax-supported instruction," and that it is to be a "system of vocational, adult, technical and community education." Certain courses offered by the schools will be offered for credit transfer to state universities. In effect then the schools will become community colleges.

The new legislation signals a go-ahead for plans to merge a number of vocational schools in the Fox Cities area into a district operation. Preliminary studies were completed some time ago but implementation of the program had to await enactment of the new legislation. Undoubtedly, however, the individual schools involved in the discussions will now wish to study the new law to make certain that all advantage is taken of its liberal provisions for the benefit of the most students in this area.

Sex Discrimination

Wisconsin has had a law since 1961 banning discrimination in employment because of sex. The Wall Street Journal published an extensive article on how well that law had been working over these years and commented that the Wisconsin experience would indicate that employers should not be too fearful of the new federal law in this respect.

One day later last week, however, it was revealed that three female employees of the Miller Brewing Company in Milwaukee had filed charges of discrimination because of sex with the Wisconsin Industrial Commission. It is the first case of its kind to reach the hearing stage before the commission.

The Road to Delinquency

A major concern of sociologists is the young person who shows delinquent tendencies in elementary or junior high school and then keeps right on, often into a deeper life of crime or at least of drift and waste. Social workers have made efforts to change the courses of life for these youngsters. But a six year experimental program in New York has been discouraging.

Four hundred girls 14 years old enrolled 8 years ago at a New York vocational school. All were potential delinquents, according to their junior high school records. They were divided into two equal groups, according to number, racial make-up and as far as possible, similarity of home problems and delinquent tendencies.

For six years 200 of the girls had individual attention and group therapy from social workers with as many as 100 contacts with the counselors trying to determine the causes of their going wrong and to stop it. The other 200 had no such relationship. At the end of the six year period, almost identical numbers from each group had graduated from the vocational school, and there was no significant difference in the number who skipped school, who were chronically tardy, who took part in school activities or service projects, or who became unwed mothers.

The findings do not of course mean that nothing can be done to halt the path of delinquency once it has begun. But it does show rather forcefully that counseling and therapy are not enough. The forces that have been contributing and that continue to contribute to a youngster's development are in his own home, his associates and the environment in the earlier years of his life.

Another study was made some years earlier in which sociologists correctly predicted from the activities of the first few school years whether or not a boy was going to turn into a delinquent. In this study such factors as his home, his parents' marital status, the discipline in his early childhood and his attitude upon entering school, all were considered.

"We tried to head off delinquency by catching the girls before they got into trouble," explained one of the researchers in a project with girls at a vocational school. But the study shows that this is exactly what they did not do. The seeds of delinquency were sown long before the girls had their 14th birthdays. And the whole fabric of each life was not changed very much by the counseling sessions or the efforts of therapy. There were no changes at home.

The director of the Youth Consultation Service which worked with the project says that "we learned from the study that all you can do, really, for a girl with difficult living conditions is to help her learn to live with her very real anxieties. We put more emphasis now on getting along better in school, making vocational and marriage plans—in other words functioning better with what she has."

Drug Store Enlarged, Remodeled

Quoted from the Appleton Monitor for July 27, 1865.

While the drug store so long occupied and lately vacated by Allen & Jackson's City Drug Store was undergoing repairs, Mr. G. E. Foster bought it and the adjoining store. He has now completed repairs on the former store, consisting of raising the upper floor, giving a high and airy room, constructing new floor and counters, new shelves and cases of paint, making the whole a neat and attractive place.

Messrs. J. W. Cahoon and W. H. Lamphear did the joiner work, which is very creditable to their skill as workmen. Messrs. Allen & Jackson have now removed their stock of Drugs, medicines etc back to the old stand, and in a few days will have it all in order again, when everything about the establishment will be in "apple pie" order.

Progress and improvement is observable in every portion of our city, and in all branches of trade.

Is There Analogy Between Nazi Attack on Europe and Viet Nam?

BY MAX FREEDMAN

In a strict historical sense, there is no proper analogy between Nazi Germany and Communist aggression in Viet Nam, despite what President Johnson had to say on this matter at his recent press conference.

Under Hitler's guidance Nazi Germany was committed irrevocably to a career of expansion by force or the threat of force. As Churchill said and as Chamberlain refused to believe, Hitler was mounted on a tiger and could not stop. It took the agony of a world war to free mankind from the menace of organized barbarism.

Freedman

North Viet Nam lacks the power to threaten the security of Asia even if it wanted to do so. For the time being its ambitions are confined to South Viet Nam. It has enough to do there to absorb all its energy and attention.

Nor is it established that China wants an endless career of aggression. China will of course fill any areas of weakness that are allowed to grow through folly and neglect. But as impossible as saying where the flame goes when you blow out a candle. At best, any such arbitrary selection always reflects the whims and personality traits of those who did the picking.

For example, few serious critics or readers would put Edna Ferber and Pearl Buck on one list and leave such women as Willa Cather, Edith Wharton, Ellen Glasgow, and Elizabeth Maddox Roberts off the other list. And many historians would vote for Mrs. Woodrow Wilson because of the unspeakably wonderful love she gave to a stricken leader against whom a fickle nation turned so tragically.

While Edna Millay's poetry entitles her to a place on almost any list, the list, if it is to be fair and representative, has to be expanded to include Sara Teasdale, Amy Lowell, and Elinor Wylie. And while no one questions the validity of the claims of Helen Hayes and Marian Anderson, every critic and every serious patron of music and acting could name a dozen others of extraordinary merit.

But many of our greatest women are never known save for those whom they love, those who have served while standing and waiting to give mankind the little bit it knows of selflessness, grace, and depend upon recognition. An individual has to have something to give dramatic sweep to her talents. It may be as Captain Stormfield learned, when he went to heaven, that Napoleon was not considered the supreme military genius. Instead it was a butcher from Ohio who lived in an era of peace and never had a chance to show his innate genius for killing.

that is very different from comparing Peking's rulers to the blood-thirsty adventurers who tried to bully the world in the braggart years of the Nazi ascendancy. The problems of Asia are sufficiently complex and challenging without drawing a false parallel between Nazi Germany and China.

But in a deeper sense than mere historical propriety, the President's analysis not only is valid but is profoundly persuasive. SELF-INTEREST AT STAKE What is at stake in Viet Nam is not the noble but elusive concept of national honor but the stark imperatives of self-interest. It is a vital and enduring interest of the United States to have its work respected by every friend and feared by every foe. Without this respect the United States would be a hollow giant. With it, and without self-righteousness, it can be a guardian of peace. For its pledges can never be recklessly given, but once given, they must be resolutely redeemed. Otherwise national honor would indeed be seriously compromised — and national safety too.

By the decisions of three Presidents—Eisenhower, Kennedy and Johnson—and by the overwhelming support of Congress, the United States has pledged itself to stand firm in Viet Nam. There are those in this country who argue that what is happening in Viet Nam is a civil war in which the United States has neither the right nor the interest to intervene. Whatever else may be said of this argument, it surely cannot be denied that it has not prevailed with three Presidents or with successive sessions of Congress. The national commitment has rested on the principle that Communist aggression and Communist subversion are in fact taking place in Viet Nam. It rests on that principle today.

What would happen if the United States abandoned that principle and retreated from its obligations? The results would not be limited to the loss of South Viet Nam's freedom and the cruel punishments exacted by Communist tyranny. The calamitous results would be seen in a diminished respect for the stability of America's commitments and therefore in an increased threat to peace. For the lesson of Viet Nam, in these tragic circumstances of evasion and betrayal and retreat, would not be that aggression and subversion never succeed. The grim and dangerous lesson would be that the United States always runs away when the going gets rough and abandons its friends in the time of challenge. How could that lesson help the hopes of peace? IT'S TEST CASE In Hitler's time the menace was turned against Europe and only in a larger but linked sense against the cause of mankind. Today the whole world, or large parts of it, can be threatened by communism if the forces of freedom are divided and weak. Does it not appeal to common sense to suggest that weakness and retreat by the United States in Viet Nam would bring new threats to peace in other vulnerable areas? Rightly or wrongly, the United States for many years has made a test case out of Viet Nam and now it must be tested by it. National self-interest gives no other choice except at the cost of intolerable risks.

This does not mean that the United States is committed to an endless land war in Asia. It does not mean that the United States wants to enlarge the war, to provoke China, or to widen the breach with Russia. The President's desire to seek peace even while refusing to yield to Communist pressure must be manifest now to everyone who has any respect for facts. He has rejected the extreme policies of some of his advisers in the hope that the Communists would come to the conference table before the field of battle takes its frightful toll. But he will do whatever is necessary to redeem America's pledge if Communist pressure continues its ugly grip on South Viet Nam.

The argument here has been in the cold and inevitable terms of self-interest, not in the emotional terms of freedom. But the young Americans who are now being asked to fight and die in Viet Nam are making these sacrifices for the security of America and for the strength of America as a guardian of peace.

Ceiling on Spending Set by Legislature Is Really a Mirage

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON—The collective pretense at the statehouse that the compromise budget-tax bill settlement has established a ceiling for state government expenditure authorizations this year recalls a favorite anecdote.

Wyngaard

A distinguished journalist had been assigned by his editor to prepare a solid article on the history and performance and methods of one of the most famous religious publishing houses in America. The reporter spent long hours in interviews with the editors of the publishing firm, and in minute inspection of its premises and study of its processes. Late in the afternoon of an enervating day, he was visiting with the editor-in-chief who had been his courteous guide through the plant. The editor was a man of great dignity and presence.

The reporter hesitated to ask his question, but finally blurted:

"Can I smoke here?" The editor hesitated, but replied:

"Well, I guess so; but nobody ever has."

ALWAYS MORE

It is even so with the Wisconsin Legislature. The so-called budget can be made the limit of legislative expenditure authorizations. But no legislature has ever done so.

The final record of the 1965 legislature, whatever is currently resolved about a recess date, won't be written until late in the year, probably sometime in November when the second sitting of this term is concluded. During the preoccupation of the politicians with the problem of raising revenues to validate the regular operating budget and its substantial increases over the last biennium, most of the auxiliary spending demands were muted.

But they have not been extinguished. There are literally hundreds of spending bills alive. Some of them involving the most substantial expenditures have the kind of backing that legislatures are not inclined to defy. There is general agreement, for example, that the school districts won't be denied in their pressure for a liberalization of the school aid schedule.

Gov. Knowles has also said that he is working up a pollution abatement or control program of bolder dimensions than is now authorized. It is difficult to perceive how that program can be significantly broadened or accelerated without substantial new expenditures. There are miscellaneous pay bills, for civil servants and local judicial officers, among others.

THE TAXING QUESTION

Assuming the inevitability of extra-budgetary appropriations of considerable size, there arises again the question of how they will be financed. The legislature could gamble on the assumption that the treasury income estimates are conservative, but Gov. Knowles, anticipating that response, has already said he wants spending beyond the estimated treasury surplus of modest size funded with new revenue provisions, or he will be forced into vetoes. That funding, he has said, could be a slight increase in the tax on beer which has been kicked around inconclusively thus far.

There are those who hope, from a sporting viewpoint, for a real showdown on the beer tax question. Their reaction has nothing to do with the merits, but relates to the strange immunity of the beer trades thus far in spite of the vulnerability of every other element of the economic community.

Strictly Personal

Sex Segregation in Grade School Logical

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

If you have ever watched a kindergarten or first-grade class for any length of time, you will have noticed a remarkable difference between the behavior of the boys and the girls. The girls are, on the whole, tractable and attentive and co-operative; the boys are fidgety and noisy and disruptive.

Harris

Boys and girls mature at different rates, in different ways. The girls mature faster in ways that are more acceptable to early schooling. They are more docile, more patient, more co-ordinated in their gross bodily movements.

The same kind of training does not work equally well for both sexes; yet the early grades are set up on a "feminine" pattern, encouraging and rewarding those traits the girls already possess, while clamping down on the kinetic and aggressive traits the boys possess.

This explains why girls do so well in the early years of schooling, but the boys outshine them later. It has nothing to do with intellectual superiority of one sex or another, but simply with motivations and character traits.

Boys have a much harder time adjusting to school. The girls are ready to sit at a desk and do careful work long before the boys are. Even a girl who does not write or draw well will patiently keep at it, while a boy who may be skilled at it will soon become bored and restless. He wants to move, jump, run, push — and he can hardly wait for recess in which to exercise these skills.

Schools tend to demasculinize boys, not merely because 70 per cent of all teachers are women, but because the curriculum and discipline of a school is designed to curb and frustrate the masculine tendencies. Schools try to ignore the fact that the differences between the sexes are immense, beginning at birth.

Three times more boys than girls drop out of school, even among the economically and culturally deprived. This is largely, I am convinced, because the boys never get on the track in the early grades, never are taught how to express and channel their drives for activity, exploration, adventure, and problem-solving. By the time they reach the middle grades they are so far behind that they have given up.

Those who remain do better than the girls, academically, because by that time the boys are motivated toward college and a career, while the girls on the whole are more concerned with beauty and charm and social popularity and marriage. It is not a question of intelligence, but of emotional dynamics that are too rarely understood and come to grips within the school system.

Segregated classes for boys and girls, in the early grades, might be one way of coping with this problem—and this also, incidentally, might provide a happy solution for a pattern of racial integration in the schools, where sex is the dominating fear of the white group, no matter what other "reasons" are advanced.

Johnson Has Handled Congress With Ease

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP) — It's been an odd year. But the odds have been with President Johnson, at home and abroad, and he's played them hard. Johnson's worst problem, Vietnam, was inherited from President John F. Kennedy. At home, thanks to the 1964 election, Johnson has no major problems. He has a Congress where his pro-Union majority was far less than Kennedy's. Kennedy's big-est individual problem was with Russian Premier Nikita Khrushchev. Example: The Cuban missile crisis. Calmed Down But after the treaty banning nuclear tests, in 1963, Khrushchev calmed down and American-Russian relations improved. Last October the Russian Kennedy But Johnson in 1964 threw Khrushchev out.

his public statements has expressed more concern for Negroes than Kennedy or any president in history. One of the unknowns of Johnson's presidency is how he will do with complicated and critical situations overseas since he is far less experienced in foreign affairs than domestic issues. But abroad there have been no crises or complexities that needed his full attention, except for Viet Nam and the Dominican Republic, which meant he could concentrate on them. Ordinarily an American president in any given year could expect a handful of grief with foreign problems. Kennedy's big-est individual problem was with Russian Premier Nikita Khrushchev. Example: The Cuban missile crisis. Calmed Down But after the treaty banning nuclear tests, in 1963, Khrushchev calmed down and American-Russian relations improved. Last October the Russian Kennedy But Johnson in 1964 threw Khrushchev out.

Today in History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Today is Tuesday, Aug. 3, the 215th day of 1965. There are 150 days left in the year. Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1793, at the tiny fort built by Anthony Wayne at Greenville, in what is now Ohio, the Treaty of Greenville was signed with the Indians. It set the western frontier of the United States at what now is Cleveland and brought a boost in immigration into the area known as "The Ohio Country." On this date In 1492, Columbus set sail from Palos, Spain, with his three ships — the Nina, Pinta and Santa Maria. His course was fixed on an unknown goal which was to be the new world. In 1777, the United States flag, adopted less than two months before was flown for the first time in battle over Ft. Stanwix, the present site of Rome, N.Y. In 1914, Germany declared war on France and Belgium. In 1923, Calvin Coolidge took the presidential oath of office at the family homestead in Plymouth, Vt.

War-time Censors Office Already Set Up, Training Program Started

WASHINGTON — Comprehensive measures for the establishment and operation of a war-time office of censorship maintenance. The executive reserve unit for censorship was increased to 24 by the recruitment of 10 new members. A two-day training conference for the unit was held. Also, the scope and the nature of the unit have been outlined in detail in a war-time defense executive reserve document. An office of censorship was approved and published.

This document states the mission of war-time censorship, planning assumptions, and

substance of the censorship program is being developed to the point of publication. The report is as follows:

the reportedly published "basic plan of the Office of Censorship" are apparently unknown to the Joint Committee. Members stated they have never seen it, know nothing about it.
OEP officials were uncooperative in making it available, saying it was in the hands of a colonel who was out of town.
In addition to the ready-and-waiting censorship unit, the President also can immediately invoke sweeping powers over radio and television.

Under an executive order issued by President Kennedy in 1962, the President has authority to take over any and all broadcasting frequencies to "serve the national security."
This little-known far-reaching proclamation was never resounded, and is still in full effect.

Press Controls
Pending in a House Government Operations subcommittee, headed by Representative John Moss, D-Calif., is a bill that would set up still more censorship powers.

In its present form this measure would give the President and heads of all government agencies authority to bar publication of official information they wanted to suppress.
Moss has sought several times to hold executive meetings to vote on the bill, but has been unable to muster a quorum.
There is strong bipartisan opposition to this little-known measure among committeemen.
This backstage dissent was voiced by Representative Donald Rumsfeld, R-Ill., who characterized the legislation as "a dangerous instrument in the hands of any President."

Vigorous Opposition
He stated that he and other committeemen are prepared to vigorously oppose it both in the committee and on the floor of the House, if necessary.

However, Rumsfeld confidently predicted the measure will never come out of the committee. The embattled censorship bill has a curious history.
Originally sponsored by Moss, long-time advocate of freedom of press, the primary purpose of the legislation was to write into law the right of access to government records and files.

The avowed basic aim was to further public disclosure of important official documents.
But the Justice Department has extensively revised the bill, transforming it, in effect, into a censorship measure.
As currently pending before
Moss' committee, it is the Justice Department's third version. Moss indicates general approval, but expresses willingness to accept modifications.

Key Provision
Bipartisan critics of the Justice Department's latest draft are centering their fire on what they consider the key provision of the bill, as follows:

"(b) Every agency shall, in accordance with published rules stating the time, place, and procedure to be followed, make all records in its possession promptly available to any person except information that Committeemen charge the President to be withheld, or of the President" gives him unlimited powers of censorship to be specifically protected from disclosure by law; related

American GIs in South Viet Nam soon will be wearing this jungle-designed combat boot. The nine-inch high boot is made of nylon duck webbing and silicone-treated leather. It has holes to drain off water, and is fitted with a steel innersole to protect against spikes and slivers which may be encountered in jungle trails. The boot also has a deep-cleated composition sole for better traction.

But, Basically, It's Old Communism
Romania's New Order Allows More Freedom

By MICHAEL GOLDSMITH
BUCHAREST, Romania (AP) — Two bikini-clad Romanian girls, sunbathing beside the pool of Bucharest's Lido Hotel, were sipping cool pineapple juice — made in Hawaii.

Between them, the voice of Louis Armstrong sang "Mack the Knife" from a portable tape recorder.

The restaurant overlooking the pool was crowded with elegantly dressed Romanians, their cars parked outside on Magheru Boulevard.

This is Communist Romania's "new society," the elite of the regime, enjoying rapidly improving living standards and a gradual relaxation of the police state system.

They include party officials, technicians, artists, professional men, university professors, executives in state enterprises and their families.

Mostly Communists

Many — but not all — are Communist party members. They have learned to make the best of the Communist system and by Western standards they live fairly well.

Luxuries such as scotch whiskey and American cigarettes are freely on sale — at luxury prices. American-made chewing gum is in demand at the equivalent of 15 cents a stick.

Some of the women delegates at the recent congress of the Romanian Communist party appeared in styles copied from Paris models — and managed to change dresses twice or three times during the long working day.

It will be years before Bucharest has a parking problem. Automobile imports doubled last year, but still totaled only 8,600 cars for a population of 19 million.

Most of the automobiles went to members of the elite in the big cities. They alone can afford $6,000 lei for a miniature car from Italy — the equivalent of $2,000 at the most favorable tourist exchange rate — or a full year's salary for a factory manager.

To an unskilled farm worker, the same car may represent his total income for more than 25 years.

The relative prosperity visible in the big cities is still undreamt of in most rural areas. Foreign tourists who stop in some of the poverty-stricken villages off the beaten track often find the population gathered around to stare at cars.

Despite the regime's policy of independence within the Soviet bloc, individual Romanians remain isolated from contact with the West. Private travel to Western countries is virtually impossible for the ordinary citizen.

Western Newspapers

Western newspapers have gone on sale in Bucharest's main hotels this year, but they are intended mainly for foreign tourists.

Contact between private Romanian citizens and Western diplomats are still rare and furtive — a hangover from the Stalinist years when any Romanian seen talking to a foreigner became a suspect.

The old fears are disappearing slowly. Romanian guests are beginning to appear at Western diplomatic dinner parties.

The U.S. Embassy gives a weekly showing of American feature films, admission free. The only Romanians who come to see the films are embassy employees.

A weekly U.S. Embassy cultural bulletin printed in Romanian sometimes disappears in the mails, although it is circulated by agreement between the two governments.

Artistic Control

As in other Communist countries, party control over artists and writers is being relaxed, but the party's watchful eye remains.

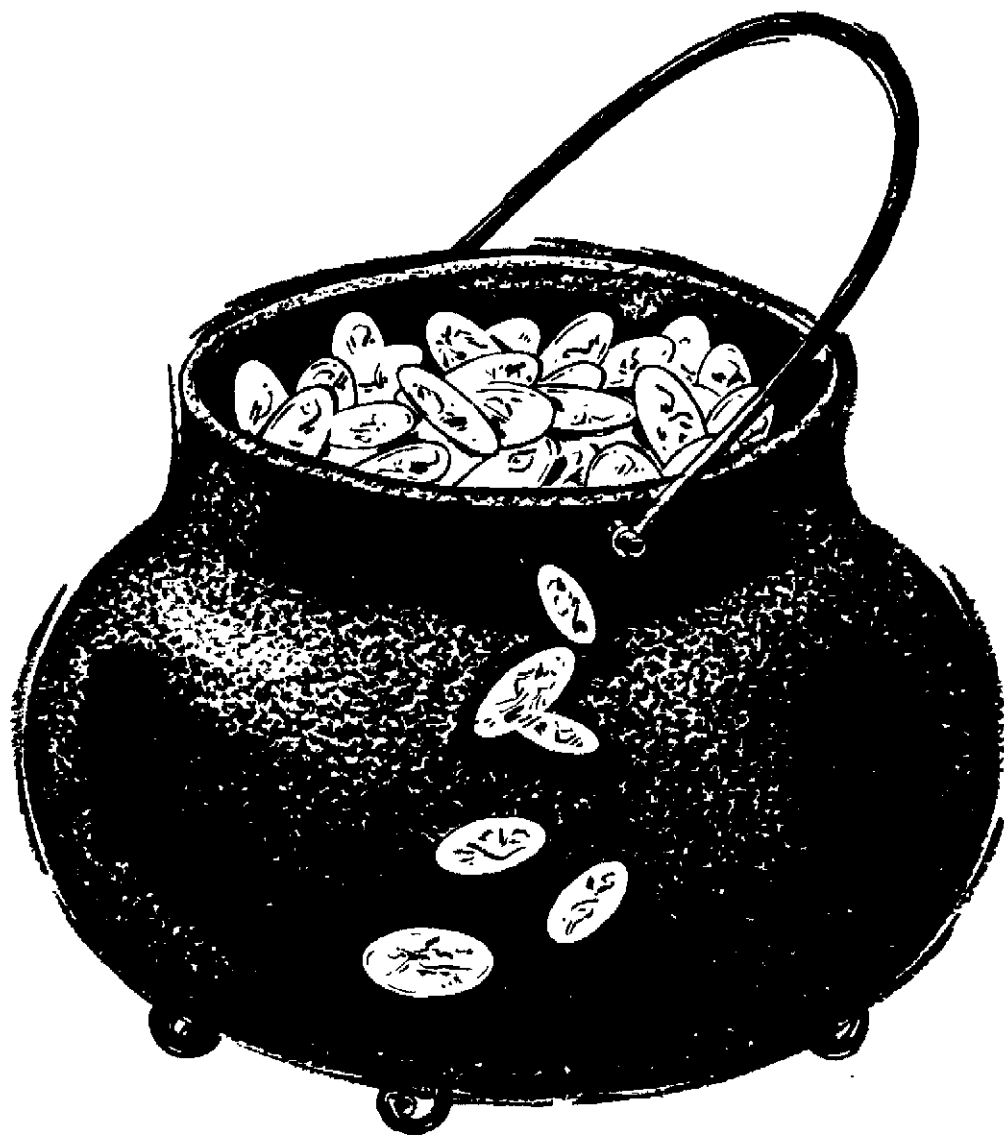

A group of young writers meeting on the premises of the Romanian Writers Union calls itself the Nicolae Labis Circle.

Labis was a young Romanian poet who killed himself in despair over Soviet suppression of the 1956 Hungarian uprising. His poems and short stories are appearing in print, and the group's use of his name shows how the wind has turned.

The group's literary weekly, Luceafarul (Evening Star), is regarded as the mouthpiece of unorthodox opinion in Romania. Luceafarul eagerly indorses the regime's new Romania-first policy. Under the banner of national communism, it can seek further liberalization without risking an outright clash with the regime's new independent line undoubtedly has won it much public support. So have a partial destalinization and an amnesty for thousands of political prisoners.

But for all the relaxation, the Communist party retains its total grip on the nation's life, as in any other country under Communist rule.

Viet Nam Now Seen as Boost To Economy

Capital Expansion Rather Than Military Spending Is Spur

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP) — Viet Nam a boost to business or a threat?

The stock market first appraised the outlook for increasing U.S. involvement as a threat. And then it decided the moderate, if steady, stepping up of U.S. military effort would improve prospects for some industries while putting few blocks in the paths of others.

So stock prices, which had slumped early last week during the period of rumors, went up again strongly when President Johnson said a state of emergency wasn't called for at this time.

Many businessmen feel that the real answer to how a larger war in Viet Nam will affect the economy won't come until late this year. But for the moment they see little reason to change their forecasts of continuing, if moderating, gains in general activity.

Increased Spending

Increased military spending should in time aid the prospects for steel and other metals, for makers of military hardware from planes to bombs, for the railroads who will be carrying raw materials to the factories and military gear to camps or piers.

But stepping up military demands, at least within the bounds now foreseen, should drain little from the rest of the economy.

Even if the cost of the Viet Nam war rises by $10 billion or $14 billion a year, as some congressional leaders forecast, the economy can take it in stride without skimping civilian production.

Scarcely Slump

A look at July performance and August outlook helps explain business confidence.

Such levelling off of activity as July produced scarcely merits the designation of a summer slump.

Example: steel production slipped from its record highs set in the Spring. But this July was the best July the industry had ever had. Shipments through August seem likely to stay at around the July level.

It's September that the industry is watching now — and mainly because of the uncertainty as to contract negotiations under the gun of a Sept. 1 strike deadline. But even if this fall finds many steel users living off the stockpile built up as a hedge against a strike, the impact on the mills may be lessened by any increased demand for steel needed for military hardware.

Growth Stimulant

But military demand, as now forecast, will add only a comparatively minor stimulant to business. What many businessmen see as much more important is the indication that spending for capital goods — new plant and equipment — is increasing and seems likely to go on increasing. That will put a big prop under the economy at its present record level, as well as promising a stimulant for further growth.

With both government and business spending rising, this leaves as the question mark the biggest factor of all: consumer spending.

Since consumers have high incomes and a record store of savings — as well as personal debts — whether they spend as much as at present, or increase their outlays, depends on public confidence.

That's a fragile thing and the hardest of all to forecast. At the moment consumer confidence seems holding high. Americans are worried about Viet Nam, but so far show no signs of seeing it as a threat to the general prosperity at home.

Insurance Board Members Named

MADISON (AP) — Two new appointments to the Wisconsin Group Insurance Board were announced Monday by Gov. Warren P. Knowles.

Erwin A. Gaumnitz, dean of the School of Commerce at the University of Wisconsin, will represent the State Teachers Retirement System and Stanley G. DeBoer of Black River Falls, a game management supervisor for the Department of Conservation, will represent the Wisconsin State Employee Association.

Gaumnitz succeeds H. Edwing Young of Madison and DeBoer replaces Henry Klee of Madison. Knowles also renamed Francis Conway of Thorp, a finance company president and a Marquette University regent, to the State Consumer Credit Review Board.

Black Market In Saigon Thrives in Open

Seedy Characters Gather to Profit in Former Gaming Den

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Saigon's wide open black market is across the street from the 2nd Precinct police headquarters.

Accepted as a routine part of life in a city that thrives on intrigue, the market look like any other shabby center of trade in the Orient. Its hundreds of ragtag peddlers are cramped in dingy cubicles, pushing their wares on a seemingly endless flood of customers searching for bargains.

Formerly a notorious gambling den the Dan Sinh or "People's Life" center as it is called in Vietnamese is now a breeding ground for profiteers and gangsters. Since 1955, it has attracted the seediest of Saigon's characters.

Markets of Cubicles
The market is made up of hundreds of open-air and indoor cubicles — surrounded by a big wall.

The property is owned by the government and the merchants who operate there lease space from the city.

Officially, the market is frowned upon but nevertheless it has remained in business because Saigon's many recent governments have had to face the more pressing problems of a nation at war.

But the purchase and sale of contraband poses a continuing embarrassment to the government. This is especially the case because more and more American goods turn up on the market as the United States steps up its military commitment to South Viet Nam.

Source or Supply

Understandably, both U.S. and Vietnamese officials are reluctant to publicly discuss how American products get onto the market. Privately, their answers leave little for the imagination.

The massive influx of goods from the United States, at tax free prices, is intended for sale to Americans only at U.S. servicemen's exchanges throughout the country. But in many cases, the goods either never reached the exchange or are brought by Americans who make a quick buck by reselling to the Vietnamese.

One example of this practice are dozens of stands scattered around the city that sell American tobacco products. A package of cigars sold at the exchange for 25 cents is peddled by the vendor for $1.

Milwaukee Widow Swindle Victim

CHICAGO (AP) — Peter J. Levin, 56, Chicago, was released by federal authorities Monday for extradition to Wisconsin to face charges of swindling a Milwaukee widow of $97,000.

Levin, arrested at a race track last week, was accused of taking the money given to him by Mrs. Alice Nigbor, 60, a furrier's widow, under the assumption he would invest it.

The 11 Children of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Harlow of Grafton, N. D., were left orphaned when their parents were killed in a traffic accident Friday. that North Viet Nam says it is prepared for a long war.

"I'm sure we (the United States) have all the determination that is necessary," Taylor replied.

Later, Wheeler was asked if the American buildup would result in a proportionate increase in Viet Cong strength.

"Any possible increase is considered and planned for accordingly," he said.

Sharp said the buildup cannot be accomplished "overnight."

However, Westmoreland said it "will move along rapidly."

Designated Troops

Among the troops included in the President's order were the 1st Cavalry Division, and air mobile unit designed for helicopter borne operations and based at Ft. Benning, Ga.

Military spokesmen in Honolulu said other units going to Viet Nam had not been announced.

When Wheeler arrived for the conference from Washington, he said U.S. air strikes reaching within 35 miles of Communist China's order were not intended to test Red Chinese reaction.

"Far from it," he said. "We were merely carrying out our program in North Viet Nam. It should not be construed as a trying-to-test Red China policy."

Rambler Reports Drop In Earnings

DETROIT (AP) — American Motors Corp. today reported a sharp drop in net earnings for the first nine months of its fiscal year, and cut its quarterly cash dividend in half.

The dividend, payable Sept. 20 to stockholders of record Aug. 20, will be 12½ cents a share. The regular quarterly rate had been 25 cents.

The company said net earnings for the period from last Oct. 1 to June 30 were $18,240,926, compared with $25,984,034 for the nine-month total a year earlier. Earnings per share fell from $1.37 to 96 cents in the Monday, Edward Sava, 23, El Paso, and Ricardo Pastor, 20, were bound over to Circuit Court also on charges of first degree murder.

Three other migrants face similar charges. They are Jimmy Pany, 19, Oakland, Calif., and Carlos Gacula, 20, and Avellino Espina, 21, both of San Francisco.

Charges were dropped earlier against Richard Castillo, 19, Yuma, Ariz., and Frederick Roy Abernathy said third quarter figures showed a decline in per share earnings from 39 cents this year.

Demonstrators March on Chicago Mayor

Dick Gregory Leads Protest Against Head of Schools

CHICAGO (AP) — Sixty-five civil rights demonstrators, most of them Negroes, chanted and sang around the South Side block where Mayor Richard J. Daley lives and were arrested Monday night.

Residents of the all-white, middle-class neighborhood were out in force to watch as police hauled the marchers away in police vans.

The marchers, led by Negro comedian Dick Gregory were protesting the retention of Schools Supt. Benjamin C. Willis. They contend he has maintained de facto segregation in the city's public schools. They have made Daley a target because he has refused to ask the board of education to fire Willis.

The marchers, a segment of the Coordinating Council of Community Organizations walked more than four miles from downtown Chicago to Daley's neighborhood. They made the same march Sunday night, but there were no incidents.

After they had walked around the block a few times, Police Capt. Howard Pierson stepped forward and three times asked them to disperse.

"Your presence is creating a dangerous situation," he told them. "I'm ordering you to leave this area or you will be arrested."

Some 15 marchers left and the remaining 65, led by Gregory, were herded into vans and hauled away.

Police said they would be charged with disorderly conduct.

"Do not go limp. Do not give the police any trouble. We have not broken the law," Gregory told his followers.

As the vans pulled away, some 500 white persons who had been watching threw objects at the vehicles. Inside the vans, demonstrators chanted: "We want our freedom."

The Mafia began in Sicily seven centuries ago as a secret society to defend Sicilians against foreign overlords. It later developed into an underworld operation.

The Mafia fathered the American Cosa Nostra whose activities were outlined before a Senate committee in 1963 by Joseph Valachi, a minor hoodlum.

Rusk Sees No Indication Soviets Ready for Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk says he sees no indication that the Communists of North Viet Nam and Red China are ready for a peaceful settlement of the Viet Nam war.

While Rusk gave this estimate to a news conference Monday, he also held open the possibility the United Nations would continue to work for peace, despite Hanoi's rejection of this move.

Congressional Report

The Pentagon meanwhile acted to make certain the growing flow of military supplies to South Viet Nam will move without obstacles or bottlenecks. Formation of a 10-man task force charged with this responsibility was announced Monday. The Defense Department, later, the department plans to speed up training and increase combat power of three reserve divisions, six independent brigades and other combat and support units, deputy Defense Secretary Cyrus R. Vance said. The specific units have not yet been selected, the Pentagon reported.

A spokesman also said the list of known antiaircraft missile sites in North Viet Nam still stands at seven, including the two hit by a U.S. air strike last week. The spokesman did not confirm reports that additional sites had been discovered, but remarked, "we are well aware that others could develop."

Rusk said at his news conference: "We do not yet see any indication that the other side — I mean specifically Hanoi and Peking — are ready for a peaceful settlement of this situation."

"The infiltration of men and arms from North Viet Nam into South Viet Nam is the heart of the problem. It should be obvious that in any discussion or negotiation that is going to be the central issue."

The United States would be happy to see the infiltration stopped by words instead of bombs, he went on, but "if it is necessary to do it by military means, we are prepared to help do that, too."

Newsman drew Rusk into a discussion of the statement attributed to North Vietnamese Deputy Foreign Minister Nguyen Co Thach, that the United Nations cannot use its influence to bring about negotiations.

Rusk said U.N. officers and agencies could search for peace possibilities through "private exploration," or the organization might yet take some formal action.

As for the latest proposal for a pause in the bombing of North Viet Nam as an incentive for peace talks, he said Washington has asked what the Reds would do if the air raids were stopped and the Communists have declined to answer.

Yugoslav President Tito and Indian Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri have renewed this suggestion.

gang was composed of mobs on both sides of the Atlantic in a sort of "federal pact," headed by the 14 suspects. They said the Italian-American underground was not serving as a Mafia subsidiary but instead the two undergrounds were working together.

Gang Members
The combine had an efficient organization that helped its members elude police, authorities said, but police managed to maintain surveillance over a number of U.S. gang members who came to Sicily as tourists to contact local mob leaders.

Investigation of the gang began in 1953 while police were conducting a drive against the Mafia after the death of several policemen in a Palermo bombing.
